Big Cities Expected to Swell Duplicates by Hundreds of Millions in Chattels.—Rockefeller and Other Rich Men Must Pay Common Debt to Society Or Else.—When All Pay, Farmers' Tax Will be Lower And Benefits Greater.

Quite a number of local citizens assembled to pay their respects to Governor Cox, who arrived in this city on the 6:14 train Wednesday evening, on his way to Good Hope, to speak at the Farmers' Institute in session there, and he was kept busy shaking hands at the station and Cherry Hotel.

The arrangements for Gov. Cox's entertainment were entirely in the hands of the Good Hope managers, Mr. W. T. Steers, engineering the reception features in this city, and Dr. S. E. Boggs in charge at Good Hope. Messrs. R. J. Holdren, Otis Small and Louis Parrett, of Good Hope, and County Recorder Tolen E. Brown drove the Governor and his party down to Good Hope and back.

The Good Hope committee entertained Governor Cox at the Cherry hotel for dinner and with him, Mr. James Devine, head of the State Building and Loan Department; Mr. Jos. H. Harper, Supt. Blue Sky Commission; Hon. Humphrey Jones, Attorney Frank A. Chaffin together with Mr. John Free, president of the Institute; Mr. McIntire, chief of the State Agricultural Department; Messrs. Steers, Holdren, Smalley, Parrett, and B. E. Kelley and Miss Florence Ustick, representing the Daily Herald.

Mayor Coffey and a number of prominent citizens accompanied the party to Good Hope.

Good Hope gave the governor a royal welcome. As the sound of the horns over the hill notified the village of his approach the honk of a number of machines lined up around the square, answered.

Huge torches blazed a welcome and the splendid audience which filled the town hall and overflowed into the Baptist church to wait patiently for the after meeting, was the biggest tribute of all.

Good Hope felt signally honored by the visit of the Governor, many remarking to the last to believe that he was really coming, and never has a speaker been paid a higher compliment than in the absorbed attention which was only broken by applause.

The Governor and his party arrived on schedule time and were seated upon the stage while Price's band of Greenfield played fine concert numbers.

Mr. W. T. Steers, cashier of the Good Hope bank, and who with Dr. S. E. Boggs had been specially influential in bringing the Governor to Good Hope, introduced Governor Cox.

The Governor's speech was a masterly presentation of vital issues now up to the people of Ohio. His magnetic personality, no less than his clear cut arguments made a strong impression upon the audience.

Introducing his speech with a joking allusion to the spirit of betting which he was told had been aroused in regard to his coming, Gov. Cox touched briefly upon community life and its possibilities before entering into the big problems which are now prominent in every day discussion.

Gov. Cox went into quite a discussion of the Warnes tax law and offered tables of figures showing valuations in public utility property the result of this law, calling attention to the great improvement which he believes it to be over former tax laws.

In his speech at Good Hope, Governor Cox made the first announcement of his intention to ask the legislature to move the tax lien day forward from February 1 to April 1, thus enabling the farmer who borrows money to buy cattle, to feed his cattle off and pay his debt so that he will not have to pay tax on cattle for which he owes.

Tax assessors will be instructed accordingly and provisions and feed are to be relieved from the lien until April.

This will be an important change, the Governor's purpose in regard to it made public for the first time to an Ohio audience, Gov. Cox said:

"The basic purpose to be accomplished by the Warnes law is to uncover hidden property. In Washington C. H. alone the Board of Review added $41,170 worth of personal property to the returns made by the assessors. Your assessors in that city missed 89 new structures which were valued by the Board of Review at $34,300, and added $2,280 on account of new structures returned by the assessors. The total additions made by the Board of Review to the returns of the elective assessors were $96,140.

"The valuation of all public utility property in your county has been increased from $941,990 in 1910 to $2,835,790 in 1913.

"The valuation in the State of Ohio has been increased from $226,226,047 in 1910, to $1,058,231,780 in 1913, by the Tax Commission of Ohio, and the individual property owners, not the State, were benefitted.

"Every dollar of taxes on these concerns on the above valuations goes into your county treasury. The State does not get one penny of the amount."

Gov. Cox recognizes today as the greatest day in the history of the world, but "tomorrow" is to be greater. He views the tendency in legislation everywhere toward the farmer as indicative of a reawakening to the fact that to be great commercially, our country must be great agriculturally. We must foster community life, must take the advantages of the city to the farm; must have good roads, consolidated and better schools and churches. He mentioned instances where schools were practically deserted, three adjoining districts having 6, 8 and 10 scholars respectively, all of which could with economy be thrown together, increasing the interest and adding to the benefit. The Governor complimented Wayne township on its initiative in establishing township high schools, and he made the prediction that Ohio school laws will shortly bring modern school facilities to practically every rural district in the state.

The Governor emphasized the new school plan as providing for supervision, with a head for every 40 teachers, meaning an expense of $600 yearly in this county. To this will be added a county superintendent at $1,750 annually, making the total expense for properly manning the county school system $5,350. On this sum the state pays one half and the county the other half. As an offset the county will save the expense of teachers and Boxwell examinations and the 2 per cent paid on school funds to officials. These funds shall then be placed on interest, not likely to be less than 2 per cent. It was thus shown that an actual saving of over $100 to the county would follow, to which would be added about $1100 by doing away with township superintendents now employed. The Governor further called attention to the fact that our farmers pay no state tax except for support of universities, which it is thought will soon be entirely met by the state from excise taxes.

Governor Cox strongly favored the Good Roads proposition. The half mill tax is levied for the purpose of building good roads in the corn fields of Ohio. We need good roads to make it easier to transport food products from the county to the city. The tendency of the legislature is favorable to farm communities in the good roads movement.

Gov. Cox spoke in the highest terms of Fayette county's representative, Hon. C. A. Reid, saying, "I don't agree with your representative, but I have a great deal of respect for his intelligence and his conscientiousness. His personality is as forceful and lovable as that of any man I have ever known in politics."

Philadelphia, Pa., February 12.—The coal operators of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and western Pennsylvania in conference here with the miners from those states to arrange a new scale, today proposed that arbitration be resorted to in all negotiations where no settlements have been reached prior to the expiration of the existing agreements. The offer of the operators says, "We are in favor of adopting in these and future negotiations some practical method by which the directly opposite views and demands of the miners and operators can be settled without entailing the necessity of strikes and suspensions, that are of a necessity injurious to the public and detrimental to the best interests of both miners and operators, and too often are forced agreements rather than agreements based on justice or equity."

UNITED STATES TROOPS WATCH FOR MEXICANS

By Associated Press.

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 12.—United States troopers today were searching for Mexicans who last night headed across the Rio Grande from the American side carrying arms and supplies in violation of the neutrality laws to join the federal forces or to harass the rebel garrison at Juarez, across the river from El Paso.

It is believed the plan was to capture a corral of horses at Ysleta near here and rush them across the river. Part of the plans miscarried, and few, if any, horses were stolen.

Gen. Francisco Villa heard of the plan last night and a detachment of his troops captured ten men. Six were released and the others held for investigation.

General Villa said he hoped the recruits got across the river, for if the Americans captured them, they would only be imprisoned, while he could shoot them. "But I am glad they did not get away with the horses," he said. "Good for the Americans; I am for them."

DOES IT PAY TO BE A CHRISTIAN?

Is Theme Chosen by Rev. Bowman Hostetter for Stirring Sermon Delivered Last Night at Christian Church—More Take Stand for Christ—Special Services Tonight.

(By Hugh C. Weir.)
"Does It Pay to Be a Christian?" This formed the theme of a stirring sermon delivered at the Christian church, Wednesday night, by Rev. Bowman Hostetter. The sermon was built upon the question Peter asked the Lord, and the Lord's reply, "And what, Master, of those who give up all to follow thee?" "They shall be repaid a hundred fold," was the answer from the Lord.
"Christ has promised that those who follow Him, who seek to promote the cause of His kingdom, shall be repaid over and over again for any sacrifices they may be forced to make," declared Mr. Hostetter. "The trouble with a good many professing Christians is that they are trying to see how little sacrifice will take them into Heaven, rather than seeking to find how much they can do for the Master. The rich young ruler who asked Christ what he must do to be saved was told to sell all his worldly goods, and give the proceeds to the poor. The young ruler went his way sorrowful. The sacrifice seemed too much for him. And yet had he made it, he would have been the gainer many times over. It is one of the great truths of the Gospel that no one who has sincerely made sacrifices for the Master has failed to have his sacrifice returned to him many fold. The new convert who gives up social favors, or business profits, or worldly pleasures for the Master will find that the sacrifice in the end will net him a corresponding profit, in fact a profit greater than he dreams of. The Master may seem to ask much of us. In truth, He asks nothing that He is not prepared to return to us with greater interest than we would dream of demanding. Christ never forgets a service. Nothing is too trivial for Him to appreciate if it is done in the spirit of sincerity and unselfishness."
The services at the Christian church last night were unusually successful. A large audience gathered to hear the sermon, and at the close of the meeting there were three conversions. Even greater results are expected before the close of the week. Features of the musical program last night were solos by both Mr. Hostetter and Mr. Boblitt.

CLAIM PETER KUNTZ IS A TAX DODGER

Local citizens will be interested in a dispatch sent out from Dayton yesterday, bearing the information that Peter J. Kuntz, who formerly owned the Fayette lumber yards in this city has been dodging taxes to the extent of several millions of dollars.
He is the man Governor Cox referred to in his speech at Good Hope last night. The dispatch regarding Kuntz says:
"Dayton, O., February 11.—According to Tax Commissioners Greer and Myers of this county, Peter Kuntz Sr., reputed to be wealthiest man in Montgomery county, has been artfully dodging his personal taxes for the last three years.
"A letter was sent to Kuntz today calling upon him to make proper valuation returns by February 24, or the Commissioners will make the assessment and add the penalty provided for by law. Kuntz is a rich lumber man, and the case is said to parallel the Rockefeller case in Cleveland.
"The local man has returned tax valuation on $15,000 for the Peter Kuntz Company, the Commissioners say in order to evade the law. Kuntz is said to be worth from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000."

PAYS HIS FARE WITH AN EGG.

Obliging Hen in a Basket Saves Her Owner a Five Mile Walk.
Tarrytown, N. Y.—The thoughtfulness of a White Leghorn hen saved West Wood a five mile walk.
Wood had the hen in a basket and was returning from White Plains when he got on a trolley car he could not find his pocketbook. While searching his pockets he heard, the hen cackle and, raising the cover, saw a newly laid egg.
He explained to the conductor that he had lost his money and asked him to take the egg for the fare. The conductor willingly closed the bargain, saying fresh eggs were scarcer than chickens.
Served Alphabetically.
Roman emperors who feasted copiously and sumptuously had no menu card, so they often spoiled their enjoyment of a banquet by eating too much of one dish and passing over something they specially liked. According to Montaigne, one of the Roman emperors, devised an order for serving dishes which enabled him roughly to foretell what was coming next: "Geta, the emperor, would have all his messes or dishes served in at his table orderly, according to the first letters of their names, as for example, those that began with p. as pig, pie, pike, puddings, pouts, pork, panakes, etc., were all served in together, and so of all the rest."

The Aztec Line.
Descendants of the Aztec monarchs of Mexico still live. There is one in Holland and another in Mexico itself, while some of the lesser kinsmen are still drawing pensions from the Mexican government on the strength of that kinship. Direct descendants of Montezuma live in Salamanca, represented by the Maldonado family, allied by marriage with the English house of Lancaster. The Empress Eugenie of France claims descent from the great Montezuma, and, as a biographer writes, "the widow of Napoleon III. is thus of greater imperial stock than her husband and brought to the alliance more dignity than she acquired by it."—Chicago News.

JURY CHOSEN IN GORE TRIAL

Judge Rules Accuser's Past Life Not Vital Issue.

RULING APPLIES TO SENATOR

Attorney For Plaintiff In Big Damage Suit Minutely Describes Alleged Assault In Hotel Room at Washington—Woman's Spectacles Broken In Struggle and Assailant's Hand Stained With Blood.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 12.—Mrs. Minnie E. Bond's $50,000 damage suit against United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, alleging attempted assault in a Washington hotel on March 24, 1913, opened in the district court, and when court adjourned a jury had been selected and attorneys for the defense and plaintiff had outlined their cases.

An important ruling was made by Judge George W. Clark immediately following the selection of the jury when he held that the past life of Mrs. Bond is not vital in this case, and that her general reputation would be an issue and not any specific acts in her past life. This will prevent the introduction of a mass of depositions and evidence secured by the attorneys and detectives for Senator Gore. This same ruling will apply to the past life of Senator Gore. This ruling is considered first blood for Mrs. Bond.

Attorney Ross M. Lillard for Mrs. Bond, in his opening statement, read the original petition filed last October. He read the brief denial filed by Senator Gore. The proof, Lillard said, would begin at the date of the Second legislature, when, he said, Senator Gore and Mrs. Bond first met. The next meeting, he said, was at a banquet here in 1912, when Senator Gore invited Mrs. Bond to bring to Washington indorsements for her husband, who was seeking an internal revenue collectorship.

"What kind of a looking woman is she?" Gore asked a friend a moment later.

"The friend said she was beautiful and described her in detail," Lillard declared. He said the alleged assault occurred in the bedroom of James Jacobs of Oklahoma City, in the Winston hotel in Washington, where Senator Gore had gone at his own suggestion to talk to Mrs. Bond concerning an appointment for her husband. He said that while Mrs. Bond attempted to pass Senator Gore, who was sitting in a rocking chair in the room, Gore placed his left arm around Mrs. Bond, his right hand over her mouth, and attempted to throw her upon the bed, and while he was doing so was observed by T. E. Robertson, James Jacobs and Kirby Fitzpatrick, all of Oklahoma, and witnesses in the case. He said that Mrs. Bond struggled and that her glasses were broken, a particle of which cut her finger, staining a pillow slip of the bed and also Senator Gore's hand; that Robertson rushed in and that Gore sprang back, saying, "I am glad to meet you, old fellow."

CONCESSIONS ARE HELD FORFEITED

Chihuahua, Feb. 12.—General Manuel Chao, acting civil governor of the state under appointment of Pancho Villa, issued a decree forfeiting the concessions in the state of Chihuahua of the Banco Nacional, the Banco Sonora, the Banco Commercial and the Banco Minero. The decree sets out that they have all violated the conditions of their concessions by declining to conduct their business and names a rebel official as receiver for the four banks, to take possession of their property "and conduct their business." The decree means the confiscation of the property of the four banks, and it is stated that they will be merged with the rebel state bank which Villa is forming.

Juan Trevino, a former official of the Orient railroad, and another Mexican named Villareal, were executed at Chihuahua during the past week. The men were put to death for political reasons.

LEADING AUTO MFRS. WILL EXHIBIT CARS

Once a year the leading automobile manufacturers of the country send approximately $1,000,000 worth of automobiles to Cincinnati purely for exhibition purposes. This annual "Million Dollar Auto Show" will be given this year, as heretofore, at Music Hall, under the auspices of the Cincinnati Automobile Dealers' Association, an organization of local representatives and distributors whose operations are not limited to Cincinnati, but who do business with dealers in various portions of Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky.

This year's "Million Dollar Auto Show" opens on Saturday, February 21, when the classiest and most popular makes of pleasure cars will be shown, this department continuing until Saturday, February 28. On March 2, the following Monday, a supplementary show, devoted entirely to the display and exploitation of motor trucks and general service vehicles, will be inaugurated, to run for a period of three days.

The fact that this year's exhibition has been split up into two sections is due to the extraordinary demand for space, the number and magnitude of the displays of both pleasure cars and service trucks exceeding those of previous years. This means that prospective buyers, whether dealers, private citizens seeking any grade of pleasure car, or business men, desirous of getting up to date by handling the deliveries on motor trucks, will find a greater variety of motor-driven vehicles to select from than ever before were shown in the Ohio Valley.

Nor will the display of motor cars be the only attraction to take the public to Music Hall during the time of the show. Arrangements have been made for concerts every afternoon and evening by the noted Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, with soloists from time to time. Special demonstrations by the various exhibitors also will be features, while the two large halls in which the vehicles will be shown will be handsomely decorated, this portion of the project alone entailing an expense of $7,500.

Some idea of the magnitude of the show may be gained from the following list of exhibitors, many of whom will show three or four models of their respective cars:

Charles Behlen's Sons Company, Detroit electric pleasure cars and trucks; Cincinnati Automobile Company, Stutz and Pope-Hartford pleasure cars and trucks; Cincinnati Motor Truck Company, universal trucks; Citizens' Motor Car Company, Packard pleasure cars and trucks; Fischer Auto and Service Company, Chalmers, Locomobile and Saxon pleasure cars; Ford Motor Car Company, Ford; Franklin Motor Car Company, Franklin; Hanauer Automobile Company, Pierce-Arrow pleasure cars and trucks; Hellman Motor Car Company, Haynes pleasure cars and commerce trucks; Herschede Motor Car Company, Rauch & Lang electric; Imperial Motor Car Company, Stearns-Knight pleasure cars and Baker electric; Kentucky Motor Car Company, Oakland; Kruse Motor Car Company, Marmon and Maxwell pleasure cars and Kelly-Springfield trucks; Leveigne two-cycle pleasure cars; Leyman-Buick Company, Buick pleasure cars and Buick and Federal trucks; George C. Miller Sons, Cole pleasure cars and Standard electric; Ratterman Motor Car Company, Maxwell; Charles Schlar Motor Car Company, Hupmobile and Apperson; Stevens-Duryea Company, Stevens-Duryea pleasure cars; Towle-Cadillac Company, Cadillac; Welton Motor Car Company, Hudson pleasure cars; White Motor Car Company, White pleasure cars; Progressive Garage, Pathfinder pleasure cars; Rose Hill Garage, Ohio electric; Moore Oil Company, Paragon Refining Company, oils; Ten Broeck Tyre Company, tires; Eureka Resilient Wheel Company, auto wheels; A. S. K. Company, metal and body polish; Dayton Rubber and Manufacturing Company, airless tires; Ohio Ford Shop, Ford specialties, Perkins-Campbell Company, seat covers; National Auto School, auto instruction, and others for whom spaces have been reserved.

Dealers from this section, as well as many of our citizens interested in motor cars, have arranged to attend the show.

POINTS OUT WEAKNESS IN SHERMAN LAW

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—President Charles R. Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin, proposed before the Chamber of Commerce of America here today that the Sherman anti-trust law should be supplemented by an act which would forbid only combinations and contracts in restraint of trade that are detrimental to the welfare of the people. He charged that for political reasons laws against monopolies and restraints of trade are enforced only against "big business," the small dealer, the farmer and the laborer being permitted to combine and monopolize at will.

"Under the enforced competitive system," President Van Hise said, "we are recklessly skimming the cream of the natural resources of a virgin continent, with no concern for the future."

To support this contention, the speaker said that the coal mines could produce 200,000,000 tons more coal per year than the market demanded, but that the operators, regulated by the Sherman act, were compelled to handle their mines, without cooperation in limiting the output, dividing territory, or regulating prices. Such practices result, he said, in mining in a wasteful fashion, working thick veins and neglecting the thin veins in order to get coal to the market at the lowest possible cost.

STRANGE FACTS FOUND IN HISTORY

THEN.
Fifty-five years ago today, when Lincoln was celebrating his fiftieth birthday and was within six years of his death, he was so little known to fame that he did not appear among the biographical books of the day. Two books of 1860, surveying the field of some fifty "representative living men" named him only once, casually in connection with the Douglass debate. Beginning with his first presidential term some impromptu biographical sketches appeared, mostly in pamphlet form, but it was not until his assassination in 1865 that the flood of Lincoln literature began. It continued for half a century at the rate of nearly a score of books a year, including every available word of Lincoln's own writings.

NOW.
Today, if Lincoln were granted twenty-four years on earth to complete the Biblical allotment of three score and ten he would have to devote most of his life extension to reading if he sought to review all that has been written of him. There are today nearly 1,000 books and pamphlets which have appeared as distinct issues relating to the life of Lincoln. Scores of them are in foreign languages—French, German, Italian, Japanese and Modern Greek—which Lincoln would never be able to read at all. There are also over 1,000 title entries to articles in magazines, covering every range of his life and character, but he would search almost in vain for traces of that hostile criticism which he read of himself in his day, so great is the mass of appreciation.

A Chance for Erring Fathers

The idea of reforming the erring father is a new preachment.

It is a significant sign of the times that whereas in the past the erring wife, the erring girl or the erring boy figured often in the problems of reform, today it is the erring father who is engaging the maximum attention of reform and philanthropic agencies.

For back of the errors of the children, and often of the mother, rise the errors of the father, responsible for the wrongdoing of his own flesh and blood.

Wrong doing brings its own penalty we all know; the girl who errs finds her happiness lost in despair; the boy who errs finds the lost opportunity ringing its knell and discovers that while he has cheated the country of a useful citizen, he has cheated himself of the chance to amount to something.

But the father who goes wrong creates double havoc; he blights his own family at the same time that he wrongs the community.

The problems arising from the delinquency of the father have been for some time engaging the attention of reformers.

The single man who wishes to get drunk or commit a misdemeanor, which makes him liable to jail or the penitentiary, may, although by no means always, largely meet the penalty of his own crime, but the father in his own ruin drags his wife and children.

The days that he spends in prison mean that his family are without means of support. If his wife is strong enough she ekes out a pittance over the wash tub; young children go prematurely to work or to the streets and possible crime—or they must know the dependence upon charities, which to a proud family is a bitter pill.

Entirely innocent, the wife and children suffer and starve while the man, especially if he has a hardened conscience, may be quite comfortable. He has three meals a day, meals often better than he had at home; he is warm and housed and has a good bed to sleep in.

It was the realization of this condition which recently led Judge Allen, of our own city, to suspend a sentence, giving the father a chance to redeem his wrong doing if he shows diligent effort to provide for his family.

This problem of the father who goes wrong has been made a special study in Chicago, where derelict fathers are in such appalling numbers and associated charities are finding so many families in abject want because of the erring heads of the house.

Chicago is trying to solve the problem by giving the father a chance.

The statement is given out that one thousand fathers and husbands over whom a prison sentence has been pronounced and who, in the ordinary course of events, should now be convicts and wear stripes, are today walking the streets of Chicago as free citizens.

They have been given another chance to support their families and attend to their business.

A little over two years ago the passage of the adult probation law went into effect and by its terms the judge may admit any defendant to probation, providing that it is his first offense and he has never previously been convicted of any crime or misdemeanor.

Judges are making liberal use of their rights to put men under probation when they feel that such a course would be more beneficial both to the criminal and to the community.

In many instances the father has been wakened up by being brought face to face with prison doors and the effect upon the home has been salutary. A probation officer visits his ward once a month, and if he finds the ward a weakling, arranges to have his wages go directly to the wife.

When the man paroled by the judge has no job the probation officer finds him work and sees that he gets a chance for a fair start over again.

The effort of the Chicago courts to rehabilitate men is one of the greatest reform movements ever tried out in the windy city.

Judge Uhlir, presiding over the domestic relations court, considers the adult probation system a great economic saving to the community, and finds from his experience that "putting men on probation, where the judge finds the man to be at the beginning of his downward career, means to give the man a chance to reconstruct his life. The thousands or more husbands who have been shown mercy in the courts are, in the majority of cases, becoming better men."

Do Away With Money In Campaigns

By District Attorney CHARLES S. WHITMAN of New York

It is my belief that the use of money in political campaigns is ONE OF THE MOST SERIOUS EVILS IN POLITICS TODAY. Whether it is wrong in a legal sense or not, all of us are more or less guilty. It is the general practice. Of course there are more or less legitimate expenses connected with a campaign, but it is only a step from the legitimate use of money in such campaigns to the illegitimate use of it. This step is easy to take, for the line of demarcation between what is legitimate and illegitimate is not easily drawn.

I WELCOME THE TIME, AND ORGANIZATIONS CAN DO NO BETTER WORK THAN TO HELP BRING THAT TIME NEARER, WHEN IT SHALL BE AGAINST THE LAW FOR ANY POLITICAL ORGANIZATION TO USE MONEY FOR ANY PURPOSE ON ELECTION DAY WHICH WOULD AFFECT THAT ELECTION. SUCH MONEY CANNOT BE USED PROPERLY ON ELECTION DAY.

Poetry For Today

JUST AS YOU ARE.

Just as you are, no change for me,
True-hearted friend,
I like the faults that others see.
We don't pretend
That life is much beside a dream
And things are not the way they seem.

Just as you are, I do not ask
Perfection, no,
I only want to see the task
That tries you so;
And aid you in it to the last,
And ward from you life's tempest
blast.

Just as you are; change not your voice,
Nor yet your smile,
Both make me constantly rejoice.
Linger a while
And let me see again those eyes
That make me strong to silence sighs.

To your virtue I would not add;
Yours doth suffice,
Example fair to make all glad.
At any price,
I'll try to emulate your grace,
In your heart find my resting place.

I'd change you not; to Time leave all,
Too soon, alas,
The stage be dark, the curtain fall.
The actors pass,
And I will know, to my distress,
Not e'en your faults can I possess.
—Nathaniel Ferguson.

GIRL BURNED

Zanesville, O., Feb. 12.—A human ball of fire, with her clothes aflame from an open gas stove, Miss Juanita Milner, 18, fell down a flight of 18 steps without the fall injuring her and then rushed into the yard and rolled in the snow while tearing away the burning garments. Though one-third of her body is a seared mass of flesh, her physician stated that she probably will recover.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

AVIATOR SEES BURIED MINES

Make Startling Discovery During Flight at Pensacola.

OPEN NEW FIELD OF ACTIVITIES

Lieutenants Towers and Ballinger of United States Navy When Flying Over Harbor at Different Altitudes Clearly Discern Submarines Planted by Artillery Officers Engaged in Mine Practice.

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 12.—Experimenting with a hydro-aeroplane at the Pensacola aeronautical station, navy aviators declared during their flight that submarine mines planted in the harbor could be easily seen by them when the machines reached any altitude above 1,000 feet. The discovery was made by Lieutenant Jack Towers when he was flying along at a height of over 1,500 feet. In passing westward he looked down at the entrance to the harbor and there saw five submarine mines which had been planted a few hours before by artillery officers engaged in mine practice. He rose to a greater altitude and could still easily detect the mines and could even see their anchors resting on the bottom of the harbor.

A little later Lieutenant Ballinger, who did not know the location of the mines, went out in a Curtiss flying boat and at an altitude of 2,000 feet could very plainly see the mines, which were about five, ten or fifteen feet beneath the surface of the water.

That this discovery will make the aeroplane men more necessary in the wars of the future is the belief of the navy officers, who are elated at their success and say that it means that flying machines will be sent in advance of attacking fleets in the future and see that the harbors and waters in which they are to pass are not planted with mines.

URGING HAGUE PEACE MEETING

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 12.—That a third Hague peace conference is highly desirable and that the efforts of the national administration to bring about such a meeting should receive the support of all Americans, regardless of party, is the statement of Dr. Andrew D. White, former ambassador to Germany and chairman of the American delegation to the first peace conference at The Hague. Dr. White's health will not permit him to attend a meeting designed to promote such a conference, he writes to Joseph H. Choate, but he strongly urges that it be held.

SUICIDE MYSTERY

Cleveland, O., Feb. 12.—The police and the coroner's office are at sea as to the identity of the girl known as "Mary Brown," who committed suicide outside the general delivery window at the postoffice Monday, and whose unidentified body has lain at the county morgue since, attracting scores of persons seeking to identify her. The body was wrongly identified several times. She looks like a school teacher at Caldwell, O., another man told the morgue keeper. Coroner Byrne believes that the girl came from a nearby town, and has sent out a description of her to many places.

Lima, O., Feb. 12.—Hon. James R. Garfield of Mentor and Arthur L. Garford of Elyria will be the principal speakers at the opening of the Ohio Bull Moose state campaign, which will take place in this city tonight. A large crowd is expected to attend the meeting.

LEHIGH CHARGED WITH REBATING

Washington, Feb. 12.—The interstate commerce committee announced the federal grand jury at Trenton had indicted the Lehigh & Hudson River Railway company on 10 counts, and Morris Rutherford, its vice president and general manager, for soliciting, accepting and receiving concessions from the published rates on bituminous coal received by it via the Pennsylvania railroad from the Westmoreland district, near Pittsburgh. The coal was taken to Phillipsburg, N. J., and there turned over to the Lehigh & Hudson River and unloaded. The coal, which was fuel coal, was actually billed to Warwick, N. J. There were approximately 1,400 carloads. The joint rate to Warwick is $2.30 per ton, out of which the Pennsylvania received a division of $1.79. Under such a shipment, the commission holds that the Pennsylvania company's local rate of $2 should have applied, and by means of this false billing to Warwick the Lehigh & Hudson road gained a concession of 21 cents a ton.

Representatives of the commission detected the practice in November. Subsequently, according to the commission, officers of the Lehigh & Hudson admitted that the law had been violated, and undercharges of more than $3,000 were paid to the Pennsylvania Railroad company. Vice President Rutherford was indicted because it was developed that on July 10 last the general counsel of his company had written him a letter fully explaining the significance of a decision in the supreme court upholding an opinion of the commission that railroads must pay the published rate on their engine fuel coal, thus indicating that Vice President Rutherford was put on notice that old practices must be stopped.

STATES ELECT IN EMERGENCY

Washington, Feb. 12.—The senate passed the Walsh bill, providing a method for electing senators to fill vacancies that may occur prior to the time when the legislatures in several states may make the necessary provision by statute for direct election in accordance with the seventeenth amendment to the federal constitution. Senator Shields and one or two other southern senators made a determined fight to have the bill amended so that it would not legalize primary elections to nominate senators, their contention being that there was no power in the federal government to regulate primary elections or nominating conventions, but the Shields amendment was lost by a vote of 37 to 16.

The bill was then passed without the formality of a rollcall. It applies the state laws to the election of state officers and to the election of senators in states where there are no statutes regulating the election of congressmen-at-large. Where there are statutes prescribing a method for electing congressmen-at-large these will apply until such time as the legislatures may take action to prescribe a method for electing senators.

OUTLOOK ROSY

Washington, Feb. 12.—Hailing the dawn of a new era in business, Harry A. Wheeler, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the 500 delegates it was an encouraging sign of changing conditions when business could be relied upon to work in harmony with congress. He said the efforts of the national chamber of commerce had met with cordial response in this direction.

Light was thrown on this subject by the report of the committee on banking and currency, read by Chairman W. D. Simmons of St. Louis. Mr. Simmons described the work of the committee in connection with the new currency law, pointing out the extent to which its suggestions, indorsed by a referendum poll of the membership of the national chamber, had been incorporated in the measure. The report approved the currency law as a long step in the right direction and declared that bankers and business men the country over now accepted it in that light.

Secretary Wilson of the department of labor and Commissioner Prouty of the interstate commerce commission addressed the delegates. Secretary Wilson discussed the relations of his department with business, while Commissioner Prouty outlined the task undertaken by the commission, at the direction of congress, ascertaining the actual value of the country's railroads and other interstate common carriers.

FUNERAL OF VETERAN MAIL CARRIER

The funeral services of Mr. Fred
W. Backenstoe were held at his late home Wednesday afternoon.

As an old soldier of the 1st Ohio cavalry, mail carrier and citizen of Washington during a long life, special interest was felt.

The ladies of the G. A. R. held their flag service with its beautiful meaning; Mrs. Dennis placing the flag. Mrs. Burgett sang tenderly the song, "Abide With Me", and the chaplain, Mrs. Willson, offered a prayer. The later service was conducted by Rev. W. B. Gage and concluded with the G. A. R. ritual and the Reveille by Buglar Hickman.

Amos Thornton, King Saxton and Hatch Wells, of the army, and Mr. Lon Thompson, Ed Mershon and Edward Neal, of the postoffice were pallbearers.

A memorial given by Mr. Backen-stoe's son, Mr. Wm. Backenstoe, paid beautiful tribute to his father, and the wealth of flowers sent by the many friends and associates told of much kindly remembrance. One special design from postoffice was a wreath of roses, lilies and hyacinths with a white satin ribbon across the front, stamped with the number "6" in gilt.

It is a credit to American citizenship to find a man of the fine fiber of Mr. Reid, regardless of politics.

The recent flight of John D. Rockefeller from this state rather than pay taxes on his immense personal property holdings, was commented upon. The Governor stated plainly that Mr. Rockefeller should have to pay like other men if he continued to hold a residence in Ohio. He also mentioned a Dayton man worth $20-000,000 who for years has successfully dodged taxes by claiming his legal residence in a Chicago hotel.
Lately it has been discovered that this man has never listed property in Chicago or Illinois. Gov. Cox emphasized his statement that the Warnes law would root out evil of this character. Already, he said, it is becoming fashionable in the big cities to be "honest" in tax returns, and he claimed to have been informed that from intangible property the duplicate in Cleveland would be increased this year $200,000,000, Cincinnati, $100,000,000; Dayton, $50-000,000, etc. On all of these increases the Governor pointed out the correspondingly lower tax of farmers and home owners, whose property has always been "in sight" and taxed.
He also reminded his hearers of the 1/2 of one mill tax for "good roads in the Ohio Cornfields", which will hereafter be assessed on all property, including hundreds of millions of in-tangible holdings that have heretofore escaped.

Some idea of the magnitude of the gigantic scheme to benefit the rural communities of Ohio can be seen in the Governor's claim that within the coming year the state will build 1000 miles of modern highway.

At the conclusion of his speech at the hall, Governor Cox addressed an overflow meeting in the Good Hope Baptist church.

The great throng in Wayne hall listened attentively to short and instructive addresses by Hon. Humphrey Jones and Attorney F. A. Chaffin, while Gov. Cox was speaking in the church.

As Governor Cox entered the Baptist church, where a crowd of some 200 persons had waited patiently for his appearance after making a speech at the township hall, the audience greeted him by arising and singing,
"America".

Dr. S. E. Boggs introduced the Governor in a few brief words, and without hesitation Governor Cox stepped well down in front and opened his address by complimenting the citizens upon their progressive village and community. He spoke for some 20 minutes, mentioning the time he was sexton of a church, and expressing the belief that many of the churches would succeed better if some of the creeds consolidated, and not so many, but larger churches maintained. He lauded the Great Lincoln, the eve of whose birthday anniversary was at hand.

He said that he never fully realized the power of the church until he made an investigation at the Ohio penitentiary, and there found that only 13 per cent of all the prisoners had ever been associated with any church. He discussed prison reform work now well under way. He pronounced Fayette county a veritable Egypt, and again praised Wayne township as the pioneer of centralized schools in Fayette county.

Governor Cox further stated that the women are playing a magnificent part in the movement for better schools, and for better community conditions generally. "There has been too much money expended upon too many small schools," he said in speaking of centralization and better education. He said the time was coming when some of his hearers would see a plot of ground added to the Wayne township High school for the purpose of teaching scientific farming.

Other points of his speech were:
In ten years he expected to see a force of men maintained at all times for repair of roads, and a patrol of roads to prevent abuse; good roads are going to put schools together; amusements and entertainments in every community are essential to keeping the boy or girl on the farm; a rural citizen sees the wonderful works of nature; the city resident sees little but humanity. He closed by stating that each day was a better one in which to live, and that all should unite in the work of making each day better than the previous.

The party were soon in the waiting automobiles and came to this city where a short stop was made at the Cherry, after which Governor Cox boarded the 11:50 train and returned to Columbus.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.
The 16th annual Farmers' Institute of Good Hope is moving to a successful close today.

The officers, John E. Free, president; W. F. Black, vice president; Hugh B. Sollars, secretary; Hugh

Rodgers, treasurer, with the aid of an able executive committee composed of S. E. Boggs, Jackson Rodgers,
T. O. Smalley, H. H. King, Mrs. Geo.
Lough, Mrs. Jesse Blackmore, Mrs.
Mattie McCoy, Mrs. David Hegler, are certainly to be congratulated upon the efficiency with which arrangements were made and the satisfactory way in which they have been carried out.

The Wednesday afternoon crowd gathered from all the country round, many from quite a distance, and the program was both instructive and spicy.

The chief address was delivered by Chas. McIntire, chief agriculturist of the State Board of Administration and an excellent talker, practical and direct.

Mr. McIntire talked especially along the line of stock raising and the breeding of better class live stock. He advised young farmers to visit successful breeders, to attend stock shows, read stock journals and attend agricultural schools. Also to choose a breed that they consider the best and stay with it, improving it to the highest possible state.

Mr. McIntire thinks that as a rule, the Ohio farmer does not realize the importance of taking care of his stock.

There was quite a little pro and con discussion as to salt as a preventive for hog cholera. Neither
Mr. McIntire nor Mr. I. M. Biddinger believe its use to be a preventative.

Mr. John W. Conover when called for his address on "More Live Stock for Soil Fertility," took a few humorous flings at "Young America" and wound up his talk by showing the audience how an "old man plays the piano," with a genuine old time jig.

Mr. Biddinger made a good address on "Economy on the Farm," offering much practical information.

Miss Bernice Boggs, the talented young daughter of Dr. S. E. Boggs added much pleasure to the day's program in beautiful piano renditions.

Mrs. J. B. York, Miss Dolly Long and Miss Ethel Huggart also rendered choice musical numbers.

The Domestic Science exhibit of cake and bread showed expert culinary art and the committee in charge, Mrs. Geo. Lough, Mrs. Jesse L. Blackmore, Mrs. Abe McCoy had reason to be proud of the classes.

The dinner served by the Ladies'
Aid Society was one of those splendently cooked dinners that are genuine treats. They also served supper and another elegant dinner today.

THE CORN SHOW.
Throughout both days the corn show was a conspicuous feature of interest.

Mr. R. P. Dowler, an O. S. U. senior, did the judging in a manner which met with the approval of experienced corn men.

Mr. Dowler pronounced the classes in the main, in unusually good condition for a season as bad as last year for the maturing of corn.

In discussing the new agricultural laws for the grading of corn, Mr.
Dowler recommended the use of a phosphoric acid fertilizer as a means of ripening corn earlier and making a plumper grain. He emphasized the advantage of having corn ripened in time to thoroughly dry out before frost. A corn products company of New Jersey is buying all Argentine corn this year because it contains 5 per cent of moisture as against the 14 per cent or more of moisture in corn matured later in this country.

STATE INSPECTOR OF WORKSHOPS HERE

Mrs. Augusta C. F. Miller, of Springfield, Deputy Inspector of Workshops and Factories of this district, arrived in the city Wednesday evening and is now busily engaged in making a general inspection of local workshops and factories.

So far she has filed no affidavits for violation of the law.

Mrs. Miller, it will be recalled, has filed a number of affidavits in this city during the past few years, and has made her presence felt throughout this part of the state, in the enforcement of laws regulating workshops and factories.

ANOTHER MODERN HOME IS PLANNED

J. E. McLean Purchases Large Lot Adjoining Site of C. E. Lloyd's New Home, and Will Erect Handsome Home Early This Spring—Paved Residential Streets Prove a Great Drawing Card.

A real estate deal was consummated Thursday through the agency of Dalbey & Hitchcock, which means much to what is regarded by many as the most beautiful and promising residential section of Washington C. H.

J. E. McLean, manager of the Washington Milling company, purchased from Mrs. C. H. Brownell, a building lot 100 feet front by 82½ feet deep, situated on the north side of Rawlings street, adjacent to the magnificent new home of C. E. Lloyd, the grain merchant.

In the early spring Mr. and Mrs. McLean expect to begin the erection of a beautiful modern residence. For some time the McLeans have been considering plans for a new home, but just what the style of architecture will be has not been made known. That it will be a structure in harmony with the pleasing surroundings, however, there can be no doubt. There are building restrictions on Rawlings street which require that the front house lines correspond with the lines of the houses already built.

The erection of another fine home on Rawlings street means that more of a similar type will soon follow there, as the observing individual, seeking an ideal site for a home, readily perceives in this section the necessary essentials. Here we find the spacious grounds and superb setting so essential to the high-class modern home. The "crowded" surroundings that so often detract from the pleasing appearance of the otherwise charming residence are delightfully absent in this select section of our city.

There are other things, too, which add attractiveness to this particular section. Rawlings street is a beautifully brick-paved thoroughfare, being the only residential street in Washington C. H. that is brick-paved. It is near the business center, the churches, the central grade school and the statly new high school. The people of that locality have no railroads nor streams to cross in going up town.

The McLeans had intended to erect a home on a site purchased a year ago from David S. Craig, adjoining the Craig residence (formerly the Marchant home) on Washington avenue. But it was discovered that the dimensions of the lot were inadequate to accommodate the structure that had been planned. At the same time Mr. Craig was willing to repurchase the lot which he had sold to Mr. McLean, although regretting very much to lose the McLeans as neighbors. So Mr. Craig again owns the land, and the grounds of the charming Craig home remain in tact.

SMALL FIRE ON SOUTH MAIN STREET

A small blaze in a pantry at the home of Miss Fannie O'Day, 825 S. Main street, resulted in a call being sent in for the fire department shortly after one o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Neighbors responded to the call for help and the fire was extinguished before the department arrived, with very little loss resulting.

The hook and ladder truck beat the motor fire truck to the scene by five to ten minutes. Driver Rodgers was absent at the time, and Ellis Daugherty volunteered to drive the motor engine and did so, making fair time to the scene of the fire.

TRIO HELD IN COUNTY JAIL

Arthur O'Neill, William Dudley and Alf. Skidmore, under sentence to the Xenia work house, and also under suspicion of being the men who held up and robbed the McLain post-office, are still being held in the county jail to await further identification, and if the remaining man who was robbed and who has not viewed the men, identifies them as the ones who entered the store and forced them to deliver their cash at the muzzle of a revolver, they will be arraigned before Mayor Coffey upon the charge.

The authorities are convinced that the two men identified by the victims of the robbery, are the right men, and that Skidmore probably stood guard while the trick was turned, if his companions are the ones who entered the store and collected the cash from the cash drawer, postoffice and the occupants of the store.

THE PALACE TONIGHT

George Kleine, the master spirit of the photo drama world has "put over" two great big successes on Broadway in New York within the year, "The Last Days of Pompeii", which is now running at the Bijou theater with marvelous success, and "Quo Vadis," which ran for 6 months at the Astor theater and established a world's record for success. The reliable "New York Sun," speaking of Mr. Kleine's production, said: "The wonderful pictures of 'The Last Days of Pompeii,' to be seen at the Bijou theater, have attracted large audiences and threaten to keep that playhouse open for a long time to come. These are as fine in their way as the views of 'Quo Vadis,' which Mr. George Kleine presented so long and so prosperously at the Astor theater." Praise from the "Sun" is praise indeed. Mr. George Kleine's production of the Ambrosio version of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be seen in this city tonight and Friday with matinee each day at 2 p. m.

SUNDAY TRAINS ARE PUT BACK ON

Beginning next Sunday the D. T. & I. will replace passenger trains Nos. 5 and 6, which were removed some few weeks ago.

The trains arrive in this city at 9:50 a. m. and 2:52 p. m.

This will meet with general approval along the line.

It is a wonderful production of the same brilliancy and splendor that set apart "Quo Vadis", and reproduces the destruction of Italy's beautiful city, buried beneath the volcano's rain of fire and lava in a series of marvelous films.

The love story, which is a feature of the play, is intensely dramatic and interesting and effectively revolves around the touching devotion of the blind girl, "Nydia".

Two such plays as "Quo Vadis" and "The Last Days of Pompeii" are seldom seen in the same week.

GROUND BROKEN TODAY FOR LINCOLN MEMORIAL

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Ground was broken, the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, for the Lincoln Memorial, a $2,000,000 structure, the purpose of whose designers is that it shall stand through time as an example of the best in architecture and sculpture that this age could produce.

There was no formal ceremony connected with the beginning of the work for the reason that there was not sufficient time between the completion of the details of signing the contracts and the birthday anniversary of the martyred president to arrange a program of sufficient excellence to mark the opening of a work of such magnitude and sentimental importance. So it was decided to let the ceremonies go over until the laying of the corner stone. Former President Taft, chairman of the Lincoln Memorial Commission, did not come to the city to see the work started.

The site for the memorial is in Potomac Park on an "axis" planned more than a century ago, at one end of which is the Capitol, the monument of the government; and at the other, more than a mile to the west, the Washington Monument.

Still farther to the west will be the Lincoln Memorial, where it will have a relation with the Capitol and the Washington Monument that would be impossible on any other site, and will be closely related also with Arlington Cemetery where those who fought for the Union are buried. It is planned to have, some day, a memorial bridge linking the Lincoln Memorial with Arlington.

The design of the Memorial is the work of Henry Bacon, a New York architect, approved by the Memorial Commission. His idea was that the memorial of Lincoln should be composed of four features—a statue of the man, a memorial of his Gettysburg speech, a memorial of his second inaugural address, and a symbol of the United States which he preserved. Each feature will be related to the others by means of design and position and each will be so arranged that it will become an integral part of the whole in order to attain unity and simplicity in the monument. Each feature is meant to impress the beholder with its greatest force and this it is sought to accomplish by means of isolation, though not to the extent of impairing the relation of each feature to the others.

The most important single object will be the statue of Lincoln, the plan being for a seated figure, placed well in the back ground of the largest chamber. The sculptor has not yet been selected. This chamber will be unoccupied by any other object that might detract from the effect-iveness of the statue and the visitor will be alone with it.

By means of terraces the ground on which the memorial will stand will be raised until the building itself will be 45 feet higher than the present grade. First a circular terrace 1,000 feet in diameter will be raised 11 feet above the present grade and on its outer edge will be planted four concentric rows of trees leaving in the center a plateau 755 feet in diameter—greater than the length of the Capitol. In the center of this plateau surrounded by wide roadways and walks will rise an eminence supporting a stone terrace wall fourteen feet high, 256 feet long, and 186 feet wide. On this terrace will stand the memorial building of white marble, its lines of pure Greek beauty reflected in the waters of the lagoon at the foot of the broad steps.

The movement for this Lincoln memorial was started in 1902, by the M. Cullom; Joseph G. Cannon; coin's friend, who died only a few weeks ago, just too soon to enable him to see the fruition of his purpose. From 1902 until last year the plan was in progress, final action having been taken under another bill introduced by Senator Cullom in 1910. Various suggestions as to the form the memorial should take were submitted and considered, among them an arch on Meridian Hill, a memorial at Fort Stevens, a memorial bridge to connect Potomac Park with Arlington Cemetery, and a government road to Gettysburg. At times there was considerable feeling displayed in the controversy.

It is notable that the site finally selected by the Commission of Fine Arts, the memorial commission and Congress itself, is the one first recommended by the park commission under the act of 1902. Many of the objections made at that time to the site have passed with the years, the city had not developed so far in that direction at that time, the site was not so easily accessible and the ground was much lower and more swampy.

The members of the Lincoln Memorial Commission are: William H. Taft, chairman; Joseph C. S. Blackburn, recently appointed to fill the vacancy left by the death of Shelby M. Cullom; Joseph G. Cannon; George Peabody Wetmore; Samuel Walker McCall; Champ Clark and Thomas S. Martin.

GAMBLERS TAKE TOLL ON OLYMPIC

Southampton, Feb. 12.—When the White Star liner Olympic arrived here from New York after a stormy passage those who traveled in the first-class had a story to tell of still more stormy scenes aboard when they discovered that they had been made the victims of a band of gamblers.

The gamblers played havoc with the travelers. Every passenger who had the slightest sporting proclivities and wanted a chance to tempt fortune got the chance and lost his money. The band was composed of five men. They did not stick to one form of gambling. At matching coins and shaking dice, at poker and baccarat, they showed the same "luck." They trimmed every passenger who played. One passenger lost $1,000. Other losses varied from $250 to small sums. The principal haul of the gamblers was made on the ship's pool. They won three out of the four pools.

IMMIGRATION BILL IN PRESENT SESSION

Washington, Feb. 12.—Senator Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the immigration committee, insisted that there would be a report from his committee on the immigration bill at this session of congress. He made this statement apropos of the announcement by Senator O'Gorman that he would urge that the immigration bill be put over until a future session of congress because of the effects its passage might have on the Japanese situation.

Senator Smith said after the meeting that there was nothing in the Japanese situation to warrant postponing legislation, but in spite of the assertions of Senator Smith there is reason to believe that many of the Democratic leaders are in favor of postponing action on the bill, and that the president has expressed the opinion to some of the senators that it might be advisable to postpone the bill in view of certain international complications.

SMITH FIGHTING WITH PRESIDENT

Washington, Feb. 12.—President Wilson took the first step in his attempt to pave the way for the passage through the senate of a bill repealing that section of the Panama canal act which exempts the American coastwise vessels from the payment of tolls. He conferred with Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who voted for the exemption when the Panama canal act was under consideration in the senate.

It is understood that Senator Smith assured the president of his support for the stand the administration has taken on the tolls exemption question, and it is expected that the senator will be relied upon in a large measure to head the administration's strength in the fight for the repeal. The president explains to the men he invites to these conferences his reasons for declaring the exemption morally wrong.

SULZER AND RYAN WILL TALK AGAIN

New York, Feb. 12.—Former Governor Sulzer and Allan A. Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, are to have an opportunity of testifying to a $10,000 campaign contribution made by Mr. Ryan in October, 1912. The board of managers for the assembly in the impeachment trial charged that this contribution was made to Mr. Sulzer by Allan A. Ryan; that 10 $1,000 bills were placed in his hand by I. E. McGlone, secretary to Mr. Ryan. Ryan and McGlone were both witnesses at the impeachment trial and Mr. Ryan said that Sulzer appealed to him for the money. No answer to the testimony on this point was made until Oct. 25, when Sulzer, then campaigning for election to assembly, declared that the money went to Charles F. Murphy and was never accounted for by him.

NOTABLE WEDDING DATE ANNOUNCED

Colorado Springs, Colo., Feb. 12.—Miss Gladys McMillan, daughter of Mrs. Spencer Penrose of Colorado Springs, and Count Paul Cornel of Brussels, Belgium, will be married on the 19th inst. in London, at the residence of Lady Harrington, formerly a Miss McMillan, daughter of the late United States Senator James McMillan of Detroit.

ECUADOR BATTLE

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Feb. 12.—Esmeraldas, capital of the province of Esmeraldas, which has been in the hands of the revolutionists since Dec. 15, was bombarded by government gunboats and heavy artillery, and according to the latest advices, was recaptured by the government forces.

Professor Blackie's Opinion.

A serious minded lady once tried to lure Professor Blackie into giving his opinion of Sankey's hymns at a time when they had an enormous vogue. The lady was giving the professor lunch, and he tried to fob her off by praising a Stilton cheese on the table. Some time after the lady sent him a copy of Sankey and a piece of the cheese, hoping thus to draw him. She succeeded to the extent of these four lines of verse:
Thrice blessed is she that hath done what she could
To make a lean man fat and a bad man good—
For the body, cheese; for the soul, Sankey;
For both, thankee.

LIKE EVE, SHE WILL ROAM WOOD

Daring Girl Will Take Neither Provisions nor Arms.

MAY RETURN FULLY GLAD

To Obtain Clothes by Slaying Animals and Using Skins—Daughter of Guide Says Knowledge of Woodcraft Will Enable Her to Succeed—Expert Shot With Rifle and Skillful With the Rod.

Portland, Me.—Garbed only in the original attire of Mother Eve, Miss Bana Douglass of Stratton will enter the dense woods of Franklin county and remain there two months some time this year. She will take neither weapons, clothing nor provisions, but will trust to her woodcraft and her knowledge of game to enable her to live and to come forth fully clad and in fine fighting trim. She is a fearless ranger of the forests, and her friends say she will accomplish her difficult task.

Miss Douglass declares she will enter the forests of her native county as scantily clad as when she was born and will come forth at the end of the two months fully clothed in such garb as she can obtain in the woodlands. She will take nothing, feeling certain that she can provide for herself whatever she needs of food and raiment.

Fear of no modern Actaeon seems to enter her mind. Miss Douglass greatly prefers the woods and fields and streams, with their hunting, freedom and fishing, to a love romance.

Since childhood the girl, a daughter of Gus Douglass of Stratton, has followed her father hundreds of miles in the woods, has absorbed his fund of wood lore and has studied the forests and inland waters with their teeming life. The father is an expert shot, trapper, fisherman and guide, and just now he, another man and Miss Douglass are across the Canadian border on a shooting trip.

Miss Douglass knows every kind of tree and bird and animal to be found in the Dead River region of this state, knows every sort of animal of the field and river banks and every variety of fish frequenting Carrabassett river and the south and north branches of the Dead river itself in her home district. She knows all their habits and peculiarities and has no fear of life alone among them for two months.

Stratton is a part of the town of Eustis, forty-eight miles north of Farmington. The settlement and all the region of the Dead river lying thereabout are thinly populated, comparatively speaking, but they offer a great field for the sportsman with rod and gun. From her home town to the Canadian border no pond, stream or trail is unknown to this twentieth century Diana, and the crack of her rifle almost always brings down that at which she aims. With her endurance and knowledge of the woods and game she is ideally equipped for her coming adventure.

Miss Douglass last summer carried the mails over the rural route from Stratton to and through neighboring settlements for upward of twenty-five miles and in all sorts of weather and under many difficulties. She is not of large frame, but is strong and agile, the simple life of the backwoods serving in the twenty-three years of her life to conserve her strength and to build up a rugged constitution.

The girl seeks no notoriety in the venture she will make, and in all probability the outside world will never know she has completed her two months alone with the forest dangers until the time is up. Unwished for attention may be attracted to the venture, but the girl's family will guard against intruders.

The same "overhead" expense that pays for delivering a ten-cent package to you will pay for delivering five or six or seven times that quantity of Snow-Mellow if we put it all in one package, and that is what we have done.

Instead of putting only enough Snow-Mellow for one dessert in a package and charging ten cents—we put seven times that quantity—enough for seven desserts—in one package, and instead of charging you seventy cents, the price is only 25c—because we save for you the cost of packing and delivering the six extra packages. That is the only fair way. For after you once find how easy to make and how good to eat Snow-Mellow is—you will want to serve it in different desserts several times every week.

WILMINGTON FACES UNUSUAL PROBLEM

Wilmington finds itself in a truly regrettable situation, as a result of illegal proceedings looking toward the paving of the principal up-town streets, and Judge Newby has just handed down a decision in which a perpetual restraining order has been issued to prevent further proceedings on the part of those who took the contract to pave the streets.

The work was started early enough to pave the streets before winter, but after the streets were torn up and made almost impassable, the trouble reached the courts and work stopped, with the result that since that time the streets in the main part of the town have been in a most deplorable condition.

What solution will be found to the problem has not been determined.

Rain From a Tree.

On one of the Canary islands there is said to be a tree which dispels from its branches actual rain to such an extent that a cistern placed at its base is never unfilled. This tree grows in one of the driest islands, through which no water ever flows. The branches of the trees are a cloud that changes into moisture frequently and sheds clear water.

GIRL BURNED

By Associated Press.

Mansfield, Ohio, February 12.—Pay Wilson, 18, was seriously burned here early today when her nightgown caught fire from an open grate. Her father, Charles Wilson, also was burned trying to save her.

Women in England.

In the seventeenth century Englishwomen were recognized as possessing an economic and political status side by side with Englishmen. There was written an interesting entry in the church warden's accounts of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, proving that one Elizabeth Bartlett was entrusted with the casting of the second bell and that all the women employed thus were paid at the same rate as men for the same work. Another instance is to be found in the records of the Fleet prison, of which the first female warden, appointed in 1217 on the death of her husband Robert, received the same salary "as the said Robert had been accustomed to during his life."

He Had Been There.

Rodrick—Howdy, old man? We are going on a camping trip soon. Did you ever enjoy a camping trip where you had to do your own cooking and sleep beneath the stars? Van Albert—Nope. Rodrick—What? Do you mean to say you have never been on a camping trip? Van Albert—No. I mean to say that I never enjoyed one.—Chicago News.

REACH YOUR IDEAL.

The ideal is in thyself. The impediment, too, is in thyself. Thy condition is but stuff thou art to shape that same ideal out of. What matters it whether such stuff be of this sort or that, so the form thou give be heroic?—Thomas Carlyle.

What She Preferred.
Apropos of Senator Depew's declaration that in his young days in Peeks-kill marriages were very happy and comfortable on $1,000 or so a year, Millicent M. Atwood in an anti-suffrage address in Baltimore said: "The cost of living is higher now than in Mr. Depew's young days, and it is impossible for a Bryn Mawr or Vassar girl to live a happy married life on $1,000 a year.

"A Vassar girl once refused a sixteen dollar a week bank clerk. He groaned and said:

"'You wring my heart!'
"I'd rather wring your heart than wring your clothes," the Vassar girl calmly answered."—New York Tribune.

Some Satisfaction.

During the staging of a series of Shakespeare's plays in one week at Stratford-on-Avon not only were the performers tired out, but the heavy shifting and many changes had also wearied the scene shifters and property men. One night just after a strong death scene, when F. R. Benson as one of the English kings had drawn his last breath, one of the stage hands was heard to observe in a growling undertone to one of his fellows, "Well, Bill, thank heaven there's another bloody king dead!"

In Extremis.

Late one night a clergyman was called out to minister to an old man—a worker upon the adjacent railway—who was supposed to be dying. The summons was brought by another old man, the elder brother of the stricken one. While he was bustling about making preparations for departure, the clergyman forgot momentarily the social status of his visitor and asked, "Is he in extremis?"

The old man was not going to be beaten. "Aye, he's right in your reverence." After a pause he added as a clincher: "Clean in, poor chap; right up to the neck, sir."—Cornhill Magazine.

Gov. Cox Would Make April 1 Tax Lien Day

Chief Executive Tells Farmers in The Good Hope Institute That an Earlier Date Causes Double Taxation to Those Who Owe On Stock About to Be Marketed.

Good Roads, Schools And Churches The Rural Need

Undivided Attention Given the Governor's Explanation of The Workings of The New Tax and School Measures Under Which Rural Districts Are The Chief Beneficiaries.

Personal Property Holdings Everywhere Are to Be Taxed

Big Cities Expected to Swell Duplicates by Hundreds of Millions in Chattels.—Rockefeller and Other Rich Men Must Pay Common Debt to Society Or Else.—When All Pay, Farmers' Tax Will be Lower And Benefits Greater.

Quite a number of local citizens assembled to pay their respects to Governor Cox, who arrived in this city on the 6:14 train Wednesday evening, on his way to Good Hope, to speak at the Farmers' Institute in session there, and he was kept busy shaking hands at the station and Cherry Hotel.

The arrangements for Gov. Cox's entertainment were entirely in the hands of the Good Hope managers, Mr. W. T. Steers, engineering the reception features in this city, and Dr. S. E. Boggs in charge at Good Hope. Messrs. R. J. Holdren, Otis Small, and Louis Parrett, of Good Hope, and County Recorder Tolen E. Brown drove the Governor and his party down to Good Hope and back.

The Good Hope committee entertained Governor Cox at the Cherry hotel for dinner and with him, Mr. James Devine, head of the State Building and Loan Department; Mr. Jos. H. Harper, Supt. Blue Sky Commission; Hon. Humphrey Jones, Attorney Frank A. Chaffin together with Mr. John Free, president of the Institute; Mr. McIntire, chief of the State Agricultural Department; Messrs. Steers, Holdren, Small, Parrett, and B. E. Kelley and Miss Florence Ustick, representing the Daily Herald.

Mayor Coffey and a number of prominent citizens accompanied the party to Good Hope.

Good Hope gave the governor a royal welcome. As the sound of the horns over the hill notified the village of his approach the honk of a number of machines lined up around the square, answered.

Huge torches blazed a welcome and the splendid audience which filled the town hall and overflowed into the Baptist church to wait patiently for the after meeting, was the biggest tribute of all.

Good Hope felt signally honored by the visit of the Governor, many regarding to the last to believe that he was really coming, and never has a speaker been paid a higher compliment than in the absorbed attention which was only broken by applause.

The Governor and his party arrived on schedule time and were seated upon the stage while Price's band of Greenfield played fine concert numbers.

Mr. W. T. Steers, cashier of the Good Hope bank, and who with Dr. S. E. Boggs had been specially influential in bringing the Governor to Good Hope, introduced Governor Cox.

The Governor's speech was a masterly presentation of vital issues now up to the people of Ohio. His magnetic personality, no less than his clear cut arguments made a strong impression upon the audience.

Introducing his speech with a joking allusion to the spirit of betting which he was told had been aroused in regard to his coming, Gov. Cox touched briefly upon community life and its possibilities before entering into the big problems which are now prominent in every day discussion.

Gov. Cox went into quite a discussion of the Warnes tax law and offered tables of figures showing valuations in public utility property the result of this law, calling attention to the great improvement which he believes it to be over former tax laws.

In his speech at Good Hope, Governor Cox made the first announcement of his intention to ask the legislature to move the tax lien day forward from February 1 to April 1, thus enabling the farmer who borrows money to buy cattle, to feed his cattle off and pay his debt so that he will not have to pay tax on cattle for which he owes.

Tax assessors will be instructed accordingly and provisions and feed are to be relieved from the lien until April.

This will be an important change, the Governor's purpose in regard to it made public for the first time to an Ohio audience, Gov. Cox said.

complished by the Warnes law is to uncover hidden property. In Washington C. H. alone the Board of Review added $41,170 worth of personal property to the returns made by the assessors. Your assessors in that city missed 89 new structures which were valued by the Board of Review at $34,300, and added $2,280 on account of new structures returned by the assessors. The total additions made by the Board of Review to the returns of the elective assessors were $96,140.

"The valuation of all public utility property in your county has been increased from $941,990 in 1910 to $2,835,790 in 1913.

"The valuation in the State of Ohio has been increased from $226,226,047 in 1910, to $1,058,231,780 in 1913, by the Tax Commission of Ohio, and the individual property owners, not the State, were benefitted.

"Every dollar of taxes on These concerns on the above valuations goes into your county treasury. The State does not get one penny of the amount."

Gov. Cox recognizes today as the greatest day in the history of the world, but "tomorrow" is to be greater. He views the tendency in legislation everywhere toward the farmer as indicative of a reawakening to the fact that to be great commercially, our country must be great agriculturally. We must foster community life, must take the advantages of the city to the farm; must have good roads, consolidated and better schools and churches. He mentioned instances where schools were practically deserted, three adjoining districts having 6, 8 and 10 scholars respectively, all of which could with economy be thrown together, increasing the interest and adding to the benefit. The Governor complimented Wayne township on its initiative in establishing township high schools, and he made the prediction that Ohio school laws will shortly bring modern school facilities to practically every rural district in the state.

The Governor emphasized the new school plan as providing for supervision, with a head for every 40 teachers, meaning an expense of $600 yearly in this county. To this will be added a county superintendent at $1,750 annually, making the total expense for properly manning the county school system $5,350. On this sum the state pays one half and the county the other half. As an offset the county will save the expense of teachers and Boxwell examinations and the 2 per cent paid on school funds to officials. These funds shall then be placed on interest, not likely to be less than 2 per cent. It was thus shown that an actual saving of over $100 to the county would follow, to which would be added about $1100 by doing away with township superintendents now employed. The Governor further called attention to the fact that our farmers pay no state tax except for support of universities, which it is thought will soon be entirely met by the state from excise taxes.

Governor Cox strongly favored the Good Roads proposition. The half mill tax is levied for the purpose of building good roads in the corn fields of Ohio. We need good roads to make it easier to transport food products from the county to the city. The tendency of the legislature is favorable to farm communities in the good roads movement.

Gov. Cox spoke in the highest terms of Fayette county's representative, Hon. C. A. Reid, saying, "I don't agree with your representative, but I have a great deal of respect for his intelligence and his conscientiousness. His personality is as forceful and lovable as that of any man I have ever known in politics."

The offer of the operators says, "We are in favor of adopting in these and future negotiations some practical method by which the directly opposite views and demands of the miners and operators can be settled without entailing the necessity of strikes and suspensions, that are of a necessity injurious to the public and detrimental to the best interests of both miners and operators, and too often are forced agreements rather than agreements based on justice or equity."

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 12.—United States troopers today were searching for Mexicans who last night headed across the Rio Grande from the American side carrying arms and supplies in violation of the neutrality laws to join the federal forces or to harass the rebel garrison at Juarez, across the river from El Paso.

It is believed the plan was to capture a corral of horses at Ysleta near here and rush them across the river. Part of the plans miscarried, and few, if any, horses were stolen. Gen. Francisco Villa heard of the plan last night and a detachment of his troops captured ten men. Six were released and the others held for investigation.

General Villa said he hoped the recruits got across the river, for if the Americans captured them, they would only be imprisoned, while he could shoot them. "But I am glad they did not get away with the horses," he said. "Good for the Americans; I am for them."

DOES IT PAY TO BE A CHRISTIAN?

Is Theme Chosen by Rev. Bowman Hostetter for Stirring Sermon Delivered Last Night at Christian Church—More Take Stand for Christ—Special Services Tonight.

(By Hugh C. Weir.)

"Does It Pay to Be a Christian?" This formed the theme of a stirring sermon delivered at the Christian church, Wednesday night, by Rev. Bowman Hostetter. The sermon was built upon the question Peter asked the Lord, and the Lord's reply, "And what, Master, of those who give up all to follow thee?" "They shall be repaid a hundred fold," was the answer from the Lord.

"Christ has promised that those who follow Him, who seek to promote the cause of His kingdom, shall be repaid over and over again for any sacrifices they may be forced to make," declared Mr. Hostetter. "The trouble with a good many professing Christians is that they are trying to see how little sacrifice will take them into Heaven, rather than seeking to find how much they can do for the Master. The rich young ruler who asked Christ what he must do to be saved was told to sell all his worldly goods, and give the proceeds to the poor. The young ruler went his way sorrowful. The sacrifice seemed too much for him. And yet had he made it, he would have been the gainer many times over. It is one of the great truths of the Gospel that no one who has sincerely made sacrifices for the Master has failed to have his sacrifice returned to him many fold. The new concert who gives up social favors, or business profits, or worldly pleasures for the Master will find that the sacrifice in the end will net him a corresponding profit, in fact a profit greater than he dreams of. The Master may seem to ask much of us. In truth, He asks nothing that He is not prepared to return to us with greater interest than we would dream of demanding. Christ never forgets a service. Nothing is too trivial for him to appreciate if it is done in the spirit of sincerity and unselfishness."

The services at the Christian church last night were unusually successful. A large audience gathered to hear the sermon, and at the close of the meeting there were three conversions. Even greater results are expected before the close of the week. Features of the musical program last night were solos by both Mr. Hostetter and Mr. Boblitt.

AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH. A special evangelistic service is announced at the Grace M. E. church tonight, with a strong program. There will be an appealing sermon by the pastor, Rev. F. E. Ross.

CLAIM PETER KUNTZ IS A TAX DODGER

Local citizens will be interested in a dispatch sent out from Dayton yesterday, bearing the information that Peter J. Kuntz, who formerly owned the Fayette lumber yards in this city has been dodging taxes to the extent of several millions of dollars.

He is the man Governor Cox referred to in his speech at Good Hope last night. The dispatch regarding Kuntz says:

"Dayton, O., February 11.—According to Tax Commissioners Greer and Myers of this county, Peter Kuntz Sr., reputed to be wealthiest man in Montgomery county, has been artfully dodging his personal taxes for the last three years.

"A letter was sent to Kuntz today calling upon him to make proper valuation returns by February 24, or the Commissioners will make the assessment and add the penalty provided for by law. Kuntz is a rich lumber man, and the case is said to parallel the Rockefeller case in Cleveland.

"The local man has returned tax valuation on $15,000 for the Peter Kuntz Company, the Commissioners say in order to evade the law. Kuntz is said to be worth from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000."

PAYS HIS FARE WITH AN EGG.

Obliging Hen in a Basket Saves Her Owner a Five Mile Walk.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—The thoughtfulness of a White Leghorn hen saved West Wood a five mile walk.

Wood had the hen in a basket and was returning from White Plains when he got on a trolley car he could not find his pocketbook. While searching his pockets he heard, the hen cackle and, raising the cover, saw a newly laid egg.

He explained to the conductor that he had lost his money and asked him to take the egg for the fare. The conductor willingly closed the bargain, saying fresh eggs were scarcer than tickets.

Served Alphabetically.

Roman emperors who feasted copiously and sumptuously had no menu card, so they often spoiled their enjoyment of a banquet by eating too much of one dish and passing over something they specially liked. According to Montaigne, one of the Roman emperors, devised an order for serving dishes which enabled him roughly to foretell what was coming next: "Geta, the emperor, would have all his messes or dishes served in at his table orderly, according to the first letters of their names, as for example, those that began with p, as pig, pie, pike, puddings, pouts, pork, pancakes, etc., were all served in together, and so of all the rest."

The Aztec Line.

Descendants of the Aztec monarchs of Mexico still live. There is one in Holland and another in Mexico itself, while some of the lesser kinsmen are still drawing pensions from the Mexican government on the strength of that kinship. Direct descendants of Montezuma live in Salamanca, represented by the Maldonado family, allied by marriage with the English house of Lancaster. The Empress Eugenie of France claims descent from the great Montezuma, and, as a biographer writes, "the widow of Napoleon III. is thus of greater imperial stock than her husband and brought to the alliance more dignity than she acquired by it."—Chicago News.

JURY CHOSEN IN GORE TRIAL

Judge Rules Accuser's Past Life Not Vital Issue.

RULING APPLIES TO SENATOR

Attorney For Plaintiff In Big Damage Suit Minutely Describes Alleged Assault In Hotel Room at Washington—Woman's Spectacles Broken In Struggle and Assailant's Hand Stained With Blood.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 12.—Mrs. Minnie E. Bond's $50,000 damage suit against United States Senator Thomas P. Gore, alleging attempted assault in a Washington hotel on March 24, 1913, opened in the district court, and when court adjourned a jury had been selected and attorneys for the defense and plaintiff had outlined their cases.

An important ruling was made by Judge George W. Clark immediately following the selection of the jury when he held that the past life of Mrs. Bond is not vital in this case, and that her general reputation would be an issue and not any specific acts in her past life. This will prevent the introduction of a mass of depositions and evidence secured by the attorneys and detectives for Senator Gore. This same ruling will apply to the past life of Senator Gore. This ruling is considered first blood for Mrs. Bond.

Attorney Ross M. Lillard for Mrs. Bond, in his opening statement, read the original petition filed last October. He read the brief denial filed by Senator Gore. The proof, Lillard said, would begin at the date of the Second legislature, when, he said, Senator Gore and Mrs. Bond first met. The next meeting, he said, was at a banquet here in 1912, when Senator Gore invited Mrs. Bond to bring to Washington indorsements for her husband, who was seeking an internal revenue collectorship.

"What kind of a looking woman is she?" Gore asked a friend a moment later.

"The friend said she was beautiful and described her in detail," Lillard declared. He said the alleged assault occurred in the bedroom of James Jacobs of Oklahoma City, in the Winston hotel in Washington, where Senator Gore had gone at his own suggestion to talk to Mrs. Bond concerning an appointment for her husband. He said that while Mrs. Bond attempted to pass Senator Gore, who was sitting in a rocking chair in the room, Gore placed his left arm around Mrs. Bond, his right hand over her mouth, and attempted to throw her upon the bed, and while he was doing so was observed by T. E. Robertson, James Jacobs and Kirby Fitzpatrick, all of Oklahoma, and witnesses in the case. He said that Mrs. Bond struggled and that her glasses were broken, a particle of which cut her finger, staining a pillow slip of the bed and also Senator Gore's hand; that Robertson rushed in and that Gore sprang back, saying, "I am glad to meet you, old fellow."

CONCESSIONS ARE HELD FORFEITED

Chihuahua, Feb. 12.—General Manuel Chao, acting civil governor of the state under appointment of Pancho Villa, issued a decree forfeiting the concessions in the state of Chihuahua of the Banco Nacional, the Banco Sonora, the Banco Commercial and the Banco Minero. The decree sets out that they have all violated the conditions of their concessions by declining to conduct their business and names a rebel official as receiver for the four banks, to take possession of their property "and conduct their business." The decree means the confiscation of the property of the four banks, and it is stated that they will be merged with the rebel state bank which Villa is forming.

Juan Trevino, a former official of the Orient railroad, and another Mexican named Villareal, were executed at Chihuahua during the past week. The men were put to death for political reasons.

LEADING AUTO MFRS. WILL EXHIBIT CARS

Once a year the leading automobile manufacturers of the country send approximately $1,000,000 worth of automobiles to Cincinnati purely for exhibition purposes. This annual "Million Dollar Auto Show" will be given this year, as heretofore, at Music Hall, under the auspices of the Cincinnati Automobile Dealers' Association, an organization of local representatives and distributors whose operations are not limited to Cincinnati, but who do business with dealers in various portions of Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky.

This year's "Million Dollar Auto Show" opens on Saturday, February 21, when the classiest and most popular makes of pleasure cars will be shown, this department continuing until Saturday, February 28. On March 2, the following Monday, a supplementary show, devoted entirely to the display and exploitation of motor trucks and general service vehicles, will be inaugurated, to run for a period of three days.

The fact that this year's exhibition has been split up into two sections is due to the extraordinary demand for space, the number and magnitude of the displays of both pleasure cars and service trucks exceeding those of previous years. This means that prospective buyers, whether dealers, private citizens seeking any grade of pleasure car, or business men, desirous of getting up to date by handling their deliveries on motor trucks, will find a greater variety of motor-driven vehicles to select from than ever before were shown in the Ohio Valley.

Nor will the display of motor cars be the only attraction to take the public to Music Hall during the time of the show. Arrangements have been made for concerts every afternoon and evening by the noted Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, with soloists from time to time. Special demonstrations by the various exhibitors also will be features, while the two large halls in which the vehicles will be shown will be handsomely decorated, this portion of the project alone entailing an expense of $7,500.

Some idea of the magnitude of the show may be gained from the following list of exhibitors, many of whom will show three or four models of their respective cars:

Charles Behlen's Sons Company, Detroit electric pleasure cars and trucks; Cincinnati Automobile Company, Stutz and Pope-Hartford pleasure cars and trucks; Cincinnati Motor Truck Company, universal trucks; Citizens' Motor Car Company, Packard pleasure cars and trucks; Fischer Auto and Service Company, Chalmers, Locomobile and Saxon pleasure cars; Ford Motor Car Company, Ford; Franklin Motor Car Company, Franklin; Hauer Automobile Company, Pierce-Arrow pleasure cars and trucks; Heilmann Motor Car Company, Haynes pleasure cars and commerce trucks; Herschede Motor Car Company, Rauch & Lang electric; Imperial Motor Car Company, Stearns-Knight pleasure cars and Baker electric; Kentucky Motor Car Company, Oakland; Kruse Motor Car Company, Marmon and Maxwell pleasure cars and Kelly-Springfield trucks; Leveigne two-cycle pleasure cars; Leyman-Buick Company, Buick pleasure cars and Buick and Federal trucks; George C. Miller Sons, Cole pleasure cars and Standard electric; Ratterman Motor Car Company, Maxwell; Charles Schieff Motor Car Company, Hupmobile and Apperson; Stevens-Duryea Company, Stevens-Duryea pleasure cars; Towle-Cadillac Company, Cadillac; Welton Motor Car Company, Hudson pleasure cars; White Motor Car Company, White pleasure cars; Progressive Garage, Pathfinder pleasure cars; Rose Hill Garage, Ohio electric; Moore Oil Company; Paragon Refining Company, oils; Ten Broeck Tyre Company, tires; Eureka Resilient Wheel Company, auto wheels; A. S. K. Company, metal and body polish; Dayton Rubber and Manufacturing Company, airless tires; Ohio Ford Shop, Ford specialties; Perkins-Campbell Company, seat covers; National Auto School, auto instruction, and others for whom spaces have been reserved.

Dealers from this section, as well as many of our citizens interested in motor cars, have arranged to attend the show.

POINTS OUT WEAKNESS IN SHERMAN LAW

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—President Charles R. Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin, proposed before the Chamber of Commerce of America here today that the Sherman anti-trust law should be supplemented by an act which would forbid only combinations and contracts in restraint of trade that are detrimental to the welfare of the people. He charged that for political reasons laws against monopolies and restraints of trade are enforced only against "big business," the small dealer, the farmer and the laborer being permitted to combine and monopolize at will.

"Under the enforced competitive system," President Van Hise said, "we are recklessly skimming the cream of the natural resources of a virgin continent, with no concern for the future."

To support this contention, the speaker said that the coal mines could produce 200,000,000 tons more coal per year than the market demanded, but that the operators, regulated by the Sherman act, were compelled to handle their mines, without cooperation in limiting the output, dividing territory, or regulating prices. Such practices result, he said, in mining in a wasteful fashion, working thick veins and neglecting the thin veins in order to get coal to the market at the lowest possible cost.

STRANGE FACTS FOUND IN HISTORY

THEN.

Fifty-five years ago today, when Lincoln was celebrating his fiftieth birthday and was within six years of his death, he was so little known to fame that he did not appear among the biographical books of the day. Two books of 1860, surveying the field of some fifty "representative living men" named him only once, casually in connection with the Douglass debate. Beginning with his first presidential term some impromptu biographical sketches appeared, mostly in pamphlet form, but it was not until his assassination in 1865 that the flood of Lincoln literature began. It continued for half a century at the rate of nearly a score of books a year, including every available word of Lincoln's own writings.

NOW.

Today, if Lincoln were granted twenty-four years on earth to complete the Biblical allotment of three score, and ten he would have to devote most of his life extension to reading if he sought to review all that has been written of him. There are today nearly 1,000 books and pamphlets which have appeared as distinct issues relating to the life of Lincoln. Scores of them are in foreign languages—French, German, Italian, Japanese and Modern Greek—which Lincoln would never be able to read at all. There are also over 1,000 title entries to articles in magazines, covering every range of his life and character, but he would search almost in vain for traces of that hostile criticism which he read of himself in his day, so great is the mass of appreciation.

A Chance for Erring Fathers

The idea of reforming the erring father is a new preachment.

It is a significant sign of the times that whereas in the past the erring wife, the erring girl or the erring boy figured often in the problems of reform, today it is the erring father who is engaging the maximum attention of reform and philanthropic agencies.

For back of the errors of the children, and often of the mother, rise the errors of the father, responsible for the wrongdoing of his own flesh and blood.

Wrong doing brings its own penalty we all know; the girl who errs finds her happiness lost in despair; the boy who errs finds the lost opportunity ringing its knell and discovers that while he has cheated the country of a useful citizen, he has cheated himself of the chance to amount to something.

But the father who goes wrong creates double havoc; he blights his own family at the same time that he wrongs the community.

The problems arising from the delinquency of the father have been for some time engaging the attention of reformers.

The single man who wishes to get drunk or commit a misdemeanor, which makes him liable to jail or the penitentiary, may, although by no means always, largely meet the penalty of his own crime, but the father in his own ruin drags his wife and children.

The days that he spends in prison mean that his family are without means of support. If his wife is strong enough she ekes out a pittance over the wash tub; young children go prematurely to work or to the streets and possible crime—or they must know the dependence upon charities, which to a proud family is a bitter pill.

Entirely innocent, the wife and children suffer and starve while the man, especially if he has a hardened conscience, may be quite comfortable. He has three meals a day, meals often better than he had at home; he is warm and housed and has a good bed to sleep in.

It was the realization of this condition which recently led Judge Allen, of our own city, to suspend a sentence, giving the father a chance to redeem his wrong doing if he shows diligent effort to provide for his family.

This problem of the father who goes wrong has been made a special study in Chicago, where derelict fathers are in such appalling numbers and associated charities are finding so many families in abject want because of the erring heads of the house.

Chicago is trying to solve the problem by giving the father a chance.

The statement is given out that one thousand fathers and husbands over whom a prison sentence has been pronounced and who, in the ordinary course of events, should now be convicts and wear stripes, are today walking the streets of Chicago as free citizens.

They have been given another chance to support their families and attend to their business.

A little over two years ago the passage of the adult probation law went into effect and by its terms the judge may admit any defendant to probation, providing that it is his first offense and he has never previously been convicted of any crime or misdemeanor.

Judges are making liberal use of their rights to put men under probation when they feel that such a course would be more beneficial both to the criminal and to the community.

In many instances the father has been awakened up by being brought face to face with prison doors and the effect upon the home has been salutary. A probation officer visits his ward once a month, and if he finds the ward a weakling, arranges to have his wages go directly to the wife.

When the man paroled by the judge has no job the probation officer finds him work and sees that he gets a chance for a fair start over again.

The effort of the Chicago courts to rehabilitate men is one of the greatest reform movements ever tried out in the windy city.

Judge Uhler, presiding over the domestic relations court, considers the adult probation system a great economic saving to the community, and finds from his experience that "putting men on probation, where the judge finds the man to be at the beginning of his downward career, means to give the man a chance to reconstruct his life. The thousands or more husbands who have been shown mercy in the courts are, in the majority of cases, becoming better men."

Poetry For Today

JUST AS YOU ARE.

Just as you are, no change for me,
True-hearted friend,
I like the faults that others see.
We don't pretend
That life is much beside a dream
And things are not the way they seem.

Just as you are, I do not ask
Perfection, no,
I only want to see the task
That tries you so;
And aid you in it to the last,
And ward from you life's tempest
blast.

Just as you are; change not your
voice,
Nor yet your smile,
Both make me constantly rejoice.
Linger a while
And let me see again those eyes
That make me strong to silence sighs.

To your virtue I would not add;
Yours doth suffice,
Example fair to make all glad,
At any price,
I'll try to emulate your grace,
In your heart find my resting place.

I'd change you not; to time leave all,
Too soon, alas,
The stage be dark, the curtain fall,
The actors pass,
And I will know, to my distress,
Not e'en your faults can I possess.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. AVIATOR SEES BURIED MINES

Make Startling Discovery During Flight at Pensacola.

OPEN NEW FIELD OF ACTIVITIES

Lieutenants Towers and Ballinger of United States Navy When Flying Over Harbor at Different Altitudes Clearly Discern Submarines Planted by Artillery Officers Engaged in Mine Practice.

Pensacola, Fla., Feb. 12.—Experimenting with a hydro-aeroplane at the Pensacola aeronautical station, navy aviators declared during their flight that submarine mines planted in the harbor could be easily seen by them when the machines reached any altitude above 1,000 feet. The discovery was made by Lieutenant Jack Towers when he was flying along at a height of over 1,500 feet. In passing westward he looked down at the entrance to the harbor and there saw five submarine mines which had been planted a few hours before by artillery officers engaged in mine practice. He rose to a greater altitude and could still easily detect the mines and could even see their anchors resting on the bottom of the harbor.

A little later Lieutenant Ballinger, who did not know the location of the mines, went out in a Curtiss flying boat and at an altitude of 2,000 feet could very plainly see the mines, which were about five, ten or fifteen feet beneath the surface of the water.

That this discovery will make the aeroplane men more necessary in the wars of the future is the belief of the navy officers, who are elated at their success and say that it means that flying machines will be sent in advance of attacking fleets in the future and see that the harbors and waters in which they are to pass are not planted with mines.

URGING HAGUE PEACE MEETING

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 12.—That a third Hague peace conference is highly desirable and that the efforts of the national administration to bring about such a meeting should receive the support of all Americans, regardless of party, is the statement of Dr. Andrew D. White, former ambassador to Germany and chairman of the American delegation to the first peace conference at The Hague. Dr. White's health will not permit him to attend a meeting designed to promote such a conference, he writes to Joseph H. Choate, but he strongly urges that it be held.

LEHIGH CHARGED WITH REBATING

Washington, Feb. 12.—The interstate commerce committee announced the federal grand jury at Trenton had indicted the Lehigh & Hudson River Railway company on 10 counts, and Morris Rutherford, its vice president and general manager, for soliciting, accepting and receiving concessions from the published rates on bituminous coal received by it via the Pennsylvania railroad from the Westmoreland district, near Pittsburgh. The coal was taken to Phillipsburg, N. J., and there turned over to the Lehigh & Hudson River and unloaded. The coal, which was fuel coal, was actually billed to Warwick, N. J. There were approximately 1,400 carloads. The joint rate to Warwick is $2.30 per ton, out of which the Pennsylvania received a division of $1.79. Under such a shipment, the commission holds that the Pennsylvania company's local rate of $2 should have applied, and by means of this false billing to Warwick the Lehigh & Hudson road gained a concession of 21 cents a ton.

Representatives of the commission detected the practice in November. Subsequently, according to the commission, officers of the Lehigh & Hudson admitted that the law had been violated, and undercharges of more than $3,000 were paid to the Pennsylvania Railroad company. Vice President Rutherford was indicted because it was developed that on July 10 last the general counsel of his company had written him a letter fully explaining the significance of a decision in the supreme court upholding an opinion of the commission that railroads must pay the published rate on their engine fuel coal, thus indicating that Vice President Rutherford was put on notice that old practices must be stopped.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The senate passed the Walsh bill, providing a method for electing senators to fill vacancies that may occur prior to the time when the legislatures in several states may make the necessary provision by statute for direct election in accordance with the seventeenth amendment to the federal constitution. Senator Shields and one or two other southern senators made a determined fight to have the bill amended so that it would not legalize primary elections to nominate senators, their contention being that there was no power in the federal government to regulate primary elections or nominating conventions, but the Shields amendment was lost by a vote of 37 to 16.

The bill was then passed without the formality of a rollcall. It applies the state laws to the election of state officers and to the election of senators in states where there are no statutes regulating the election of congressmen-at-large. Where there are statutes prescribing a method for electing congressmen-at-large these will apply until such time as the legislatures may take action to prescribe a method for electing senators.

OUTLOOK ROSY

Washington, Feb. 12.—Hailing the dawn of a new era in business, Harry A. Wheeler, retiring president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the 500 delegates it was an encouraging sign of changing conditions when business could be relied upon to work in harmony with congress. He said the efforts of the national chamber of commerce had met with cordial response in this direction.

Light was thrown on this subject by the report of the committee on banking and currency, read by Chairman W. D. Simmons of St. Louis. Mr. Simmons described the work of the committee in connection with the new currency law, pointing out the extent to which its suggestions, indorsed by a referendum poll of the membership of the national chamber, had been incorporated in the measure. The report, approved the currency law as a long step in the right direction and declared that bankers and business men the country over now accepted it in that light.

Secretary Wilson of the department of labor and Commissioner Prouty of the interstate commerce commission addressed the delegates. Secretary Wilson discussed the relations of his department with business, while Commissioner Prouty outlined the task undertaken by the commission, at the direction of congress, ascertaining the actual value of the country's railroads and other interstate common carriers.

Do Away With Money In Campaigns

By District Attorney CHARLES S. WHITMAN of New York

It is my belief that the use of money in political campaigns is ONE OF THE MOST SERIOUS EVILS IN POLITICS TODAY. Whether it is wrong in a legal sense or not, all of us are more or less guilty. It is the general practice. Of course there are more or less legal expenses connected with a campaign, but it is only a step from the legitimate use of money in such campaigns to the illegitimate use of it. This step is easy to take, for the line of demarcation between what is legitimate and illegitimate is not easily drawn.

I WELCOME THE TIME, AND ORGANIZATIONS CAN DO NO BETTER WORK THAN TO HELP BRING THAT TIME NEARER, WHEN IT SHALL BE AGAINST THE LAW FOR ANY POLITICAL ORGANIZATION TO USE MONEY FOR ANY PURPOSE ON ELECTION DAY WHICH WOULD AFFECT THAT ELECTION. SUCH MONEY CANNOT BE USED PROPERLY ON ELECTION DAY.

FUNERAL OF VETERAN MAIL CARRIER

The funeral services of Mr. Fred W. Backenstoe were held at his late home Wednesday afternoon.

As an old soldier of the 1st Ohio cavalry, mail carrier and citizen of Washington during a long life, special interest was felt.

The ladies of the G. A. R. held their flag service with its beautiful meaning. Mrs. Dennis placing the flag. Mrs. Burgett sang tenderly the song, "Abide With Me", and the chaplain, Mrs. Willson, offered a prayer. The later service was conducted by Rev. W. B. Gage and concluded with the G. A. R. ritual and the Reveille by Buglar Hickman.

Amos Thornton, King Saxton and Hatch Wells, of the army, and Mr. Lon Thompson, Ed Mereshon and Edward Neal, of the postoffice were pallbearers.

A memorial given by Mr. Backenstoe's son, Mr. Wm. Backenstoe, paid beautiful tribute to his father, and the wealth of flowers sent by the many friends and associates told of much kindly remembrance. One special design from postoffice was a wreath of roses, lilies and hyacinths with a white satin ribbon across the front, stamped with the number "6" in gilt.

It is a credit to American citizenship to find a man of the fine fiber of Mr. Reid, regardless of politics. The recent flight of John D. Rockefeller from this state rather than pay taxes on his immense personal property holdings, was commented upon. The Governor stated plainly that Mr. Rockefeller should have to pay like other men if he continued to hold a residence in Ohio. He also mentioned a Dayton man worth $20,000,000 who for years has successfully dodged taxes by claiming his legal residence in a Chicago hotel. Lately it has been discovered that this man has never listed property in Chicago or Illinois. Gov. Cox emphasized his statement that the Warnes law would root out evil of this character. Already, he said, it is becoming fashionable in the big cities to be "honest" in tax returns, and he claimed to have been informed that from intangible property the duplicate in Cleveland would be increased this year $200,000,000, Cincinnati, $100,000,000; Dayton, $50,000,000, etc. On all of these increases the Governor pointed out the correspondingly lower tax of farmers and home owners, whose property has always been "in sight" and taxed. He also reminded his hearers of the 1/2 of one mill tax for "good roads in the Ohio Cornfields", which will hereafter be assessed on all property, including hundreds of millions of intangible holdings that have heretofore escaped.

Some idea of the magnitude of the gigantic scheme to benefit the rural communities of Ohio can be seen in the Governor's claim that within the coming year the state will build 1000 miles of modern highway.

At the conclusion of his speech at the hall, Governor Cox addressed an overflow meeting in the Good Hope Baptist church.

The great throng in Wayne hall listened attentively to short and instructive addresses by Hon. Humphrey Jones and Attorney F. A. Chaffin, while Gov. Cox was speaking in the church.

As Governor Cox entered the Baptist church, where a crowd of some 200 persons had waited patiently for his appearance, after making a speech at the township hall, the audience greeted him by arising and singing, "America".

Dr. S. E. Boggs introduced the Governor in a few brief words, and without hesitation Governor Cox stepped well down in front and opened his address by complimenting the citizens upon their progressive village and community. He spoke for some 20 minutes, mentioning the time he was sexton of a church, and expressing the belief that many of the churches would succeed better if some of the creeds consolidated, and not so many, but larger churches maintained. He lauded the Great Lincoln, the eve of whose birthday anniversary was at hand.

He said that he never fully realized the power of the church until he made an investigation at the Ohio penitentiary, and there found that only 13 per cent of all the prisoners had ever been associated with any church. He discussed prison reform work now well under way. He pronounced Fayette county a veritable Egypt, and again praised Wayne township as the pioneer of centralized schools in Fayette county.

Governor Cox further stated that the women are playing a magnificent part in the movement for better schools, and for better community conditions generally. "There has been too much money expended upon too many small schools," he said in speaking of centralization and better education. He said the time was coming when some of his hearers would see a plot of ground added to the Wayne township High school for the purpose of teaching scientific farming.

Other points of his speech were: In ten years he expected to see a force of men maintained at all times for repair of roads, and a patrol of roads to prevent abuse; good roads are going to put schools together; amusements and entertainments in every community are essential to keeping the boy or girl on the farm; a rural citizen sees the wonderful works of nature; the city resident sees little but humanity. He closed by stating that each day was a better one in which to live, and that all should unite in the work of making each day better than the previous.

The party were soon in the waiting automobiles and came to this city where a short stop was made at the Cherry, after which Governor Cox boarded the 11:50 train and returned to Columbus.

Rodgers, treasurer, with the aid of an able executive committee composed of S. E. Boggs, Jackson Rodgers, T. O. Smalley, H. H. King, Mrs. Geo. Lough, Mrs. Jesse Blackmore, Mrs. Mattie McCoy, Mrs. David Hegler, are certainly to be congratulated upon the efficiency with which arrangements were made and the satisfactory way in which they have been carried out.

The Wednesday afternoon crowd gathered from all the country round, many from quite a distance, and the program was both instructive and spicy.

The chief address was delivered by Chas. McIntire, chief agriculturist of the State Board of Administration and an excellent talker, practical and direct.

Mr. McIntire talked especially along the line of stock raising and the breeding of better class live stock. He advised young farmers to visit successful breeders, to attend stock shows, read stock journals and attend agricultural schools. Also to choose a breed that they consider the best and stay with it, improving it to the highest possible state.

Mr. McIntire thinks that as a rule, the Ohio farmer does not realize the importance of taking care of his stock. There was quite a little pro and con discussion as to salt as a preventive for hog cholera. Neither Mr. McIntire nor Mr. I. M. Biddinger believe its use to be a preventive.

Mr. John W. Conover when called for his address on "More Live Stock for Soil Fertility," took a few humorous flings at "Young America" and wound up his talk by showing the audience how an "old man plays the piano," with a genuine old time jig.

Mr. Biddinger made a good address on "Economy on the Farm," offering much practical information.

Miss Bernice Boggs, the talented young daughter of Dr. S. E. Boggs added much pleasure to the day's program in beautiful piano renditions.

Mrs. J. B. York, Miss Dolly Long and Miss Ethel Huggart also rendered choice musical numbers.

The Domestic Science exhibit of cake and bread showed expert culinary art and the committee in charge, Mrs. Geo. Lough, Mrs. Jesse L. Blackmore, Mrs. Abe McCoy had reason to be proud of the classes.

The dinner served by the Ladies' Aid Society was one of those splendidly cooked dinners that are genuine treats. They also served supper and another elegant dinner today.

THE CORN SHOW.
Throughout both days the corn show was a conspicuous feature of interest.

in the main, in unusually good condition for a season as bad as last year for the maturing of corn.

In discussing the new agricultural laws for the grading of corn, Mr. Dowler recommended the use of a phosphoric acid fertilizer as a means of ripening corn earlier and making a plumper grain. He emphasized the advantage of having corn ripened in time to thoroughly dry out before frost. A corn products company of New Jersey is buying all Argentine corn this year because it contains 5 per cent of moisture as against the 14 per cent or more of moisture in corn matured later in this country.

STATE INSPECTOR OF WORKSHOPS HERE

Mrs. Augusta C. F. Miller, of Springfield, Deputy Inspector of Workshops and Factories of this district, arrived in the city Wednesday evening and is now busily engaged in making a general inspection of local workshops and factories.

So far she has filed no affidavits for violation of the law.

Mrs. Miller, it will be recalled, has filed a number of affidavits in this city during the past few years, and has made her presence felt throughout this part of the state, in the enforcement of laws regulating workshops and factories.

ANOTHER MODERN HOME IS PLANNED

J. E. McLean Purchases Large Lot Adjoining Site of C. E. Lloyd's New Home, and Will Erect Handsome Home Early This Spring—Paved Residential Streets Prove a Great Drawing Card.

A real estate deal was consummated Thursday through the agency of Dalbey & Hitchcock, which means much to what is regarded by many as the most beautiful and promising residential section of Washington C. H.

J. E. McLean, manager of the Washington Milling company, purchased from Mrs. C. H. Brownell, a building lot 100 feet front by 82½ feet deep, situated on the north side of Rawlings street, adjacent to the magnificent new home of C. E. Lloyd, the grain merchant.

In the early spring Mr. and Mrs. McLean expect to begin the erection of a beautiful modern residence. For some time the McLeans have been considering plans for a new home, but just what the style of architecture will be has not been made known. That it will be a structure in harmony with the pleasing surroundings, however, there can be no doubt. There are building restrictions on Rawlings street which require that the front house lines correspond with the lines of the houses already built.

The erection of another fine home on Rawlings street means that more of a similar type will soon follow there, as the observing individual, seeking an ideal site for a home, readily perceives in this section the necessary essentials. Here we find the spacious grounds and superb setting so essential to the high-class modern home. The "crowded" surroundings that so often detract from the pleasing appearance of the otherwise charming residence are delightfully absent in this select section of our city.

There are other things, too, which add attractiveness to this particular section. Rawlings street is a beautifully brick-paved thoroughfare, being the only residential street in Washington C. H. that is brick-paved. It is near the business center, the churches, the central grade school and the stately new high school. The people of that locality have no railroads nor streams to cross in going up town.

The McLeans had intended to erect a home on a site purchased a year ago from David S. Craig, adjoining the Craig residence (formerly the Marchant home) on Washington avenue. But it was discovered that the dimensions of the lot were inadequate to accommodate the structure that had been planned. At the same time Mr. Craig was willing to repurchase the lot which he had sold to Mr. McLean, although regretting very much to lose the McLeans as neighbors. So Mr. Craig again owns the land, and the grounds of the charming Craig home remain in tact.

SMALL FIRE ON SOUTH MAIN STREET

A small blaze in a pantry at the home of Miss Fannie O'Day, 825 S. Main street, resulted in a call being sent in for the fire department shortly after one o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Neighbors responded to the call for help and the fire was extinguished before the department arrived, with very little loss resulting.

The hook and ladder truck beat the motor fire truck to the scene by five to ten minutes. Driver Rodgers was absent at the time, and Ellis Daugherty volunteered to drive the motor engine and did so, making fair time to the scene of the fire.

NOVEL BASKET BALL GAME

There's going to be some basketball game at the High school gymnasium Friday night, when Supt. McClain and the High school teachers play the Seniors.

As a fun producer this game will be in a class by itself.

The line-up for the faculty will be: Coulter, center; McClung, right forward; McClain, right guard; Toops, right guard; Shively, left guard, and for the seniors: Gray, center; right forward, Murray, guard, Rothrock, right guard, McGinnis; left forward Adams and Collopy.

The game will be a double header, the Senior girls playing the Juniors. The game will be called at 7:30.

TRIO HELD IN COUNTY JAIL

Arthur O'Neill, William Dudley and Alf. Skidmore, under sentence to the Xenia work house, and also under suspicion of being the men who held up and robbed the McLain post-office, are still being held in the county jail to await further identification, and if the remaining man who was robbed and who has not viewed the men, identifies them as the ones who entered the store and forced them to deliver their cash at the muzzle of a revolver, they will be arraigned before Mayor Coffey upon the charge.

The authorities are convinced that the two men identified by the victims of the robbery, are the right men, and that Skidmore probably stood guard while the trick was turned, if his companions are the ones who entered the store and collected the cash from the cash drawer, postoffice and the occupants of the store.

THE PALACE TONIGHT

George Kleine, the master spirit of the photo drama world has "put over" two great big successes on Broadway in New York within the year, "The Last Days of Pompeii", which is now running at the Bijou theater with marvelous success, and "Quo Vadis," which ran for 6 months at the Astor theater and established a world's record for success. The reliable "New York Sun," speaking of Mr. Kleine's production, said: "The wonderful pictures of 'The Last Days of Pompeii,' to be seen at the Bijou theater, have attracted large audiences and threaten to keep that playhouse open for a long time to come. These are as fine in their way as the views of 'Quo Vadis,' which Mr. George Kleine presented so long and so prosperously at the Astor theater." Praise from the "Sun" is praise indeed. Mr. George Kleine's production of the Ambrosio version of "The Last Days of Pompeii" will be seen in this city tonight and Friday with matinee each day at 2 p. m.

SUNDAY TRAINS ARE PUT BACK ON

Beginning next Sunday the D. T. & I. will replace passenger trains Nos. 5 and 6, which were removed some few weeks ago.

The trains arrive in this city at 9:50 a. m. and 2:52 p. m.

This will meet with general approval along the line.

The Palace Theater is putting on another great photo drama today and Friday in "The Last Days of Pompeii".

It is a wonderful production of the same brilliancy and splendor that set apart "Quo Vadis", and reproduces the destruction of Italy's beautiful city, buried beneath the volcano's rain of fire and lava in a series of marvelous films.

GROUND BROKEN TODAY FOR LINCOLN MEMORIAL

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Ground was broken, the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln for the Lincoln Memorial, a $2,000,000 structure, the purpose of whose designers is that it shall stand through time as an example of the best in architecture and sculpture that this age could produce.

There was no formal ceremony connected with the beginning of the work for the reason that there was not sufficient time between the completion of the details of signing the contracts and the birthday anniversary of the martyred president to arrange a program of sufficient excellence to mark the opening of a work of such magnitude and sentimental importance. So it was decided to let the ceremonies go over until the laying of the corner stone. Former President Taft, chairman of the Lincoln Memorial Commission, did not come to the city to see the work started.

The site for the memorial is in Potomac Park on an "axis" planned more than a century ago, at one end of which is the Capitol, the monument of the government; and at the other, more than a mile to the west, the Washington Monument.

Still farther to the west will be the Lincoln Memorial, where it will have a relation with the Capitol and the Washington Monument that would be impossible on any other site, and will be closely related also with Arlington Cemetery where those who fought for the Union are buried. It is planned to have, some day, a memorial bridge linking the Lincoln Memorial with Arlington.

The design of the Memorial is the work of Henry Bacon, a New York architect, approved by the Memorial Commission. His idea was that the memorial of Lincoln should be composed of four features—a statue of the man, a memorial of his Gettysburg speech, a memorial of his second inaugural address, and a symbol of the United States which he preserved. Each feature will be related to the others by means of design and position and each will be so arranged that it will become an integral part of the whole in order to attain unity and simplicity in the monument. Each feature is meant to impress the beholder with its great force and this it is sought to accomplish by means of isolation, though not to the extent of impairing the relation of each feature to the others.

The most important single object will be the statue of Lincoln, the plan being for a seated figure, placed well in the back ground on the largest chamber. The sculptor has not yet been selected. This chamber will be unoccupied by any other object that might detract from the effectiveness of the statue and the visitor will be alone with it.

By means of terraces the ground on which the memorial will stand will be raised until the building itself will be 45 feet higher than the present grade. First a circular terrace 1,000 feet in diameter will be raised 11 feet above the present grade and on its outer edge will be planted four concentric rows of trees leaving in the center a plateau 755

feet in diameter—greater than the length of the Capitol. In the center of this plateau surrounded by wide roadways and walks will rise an eminence supporting a stone terrace wall fourteen feet high, 256 feet long, and 186 feet wide. On this terrace will stand the memorial building of white marble, its lines of pure Greek beauty reflected in the waters of the lagoon at the foot of the broad steps.

The movement for this Lincoln memorial was started in 1902, by the M. Cullom; Joseph G. Cannon; coln's friend, who died only a few weeks ago, just too soon to enable him to see the fruition of his purpose. From 1902 until last year the plan was in progress, final action having been taken under another bill introduced by Senator Cullom in 1910. Various suggestions as to the form the memorial should take were submitted and considered, among them an arch on Meridian Hill, a memorial at Fort Stevens, a memorial bridge to connect Potomac Park with Arlington Cemetery, and a government road to Gettysburg. At times there was considerable feeling displayed in the controversy.

It is notable that the site finally selected by the Commission of Fine Arts, the memorial commission and Congress itself, is the one first recommended by the park commission under the act of 1902. Many of the objections made at that time to the site have passed with the years, the city had not developed so far in that direction at that time, the site was not so easily accessible and the ground was much lower and more swampy.

The members of the Lincoln Memorial Commission are: William H. Taft, chairman; Joseph C. S. Blackburn, recently appointed to fill the vacancy left by the death of Shelby M. Cullom; Joseph G. Cannon; George Peabody Wetmore; Samuel Walker McCall; Champ Clark and Thomas S. Martin.

GAMBLERS TAKE TOLL ON OLYMPIC

Southampton, Feb. 12.—When the White Star liner Olympic arrived here from New York after a stormy passage those who traveled in the first-class had a story to tell of still more stormy scenes aboard when they discovered that they had been made the victims of a band of gamblers. The gamblers played havoc with the travelers. Every passenger who had the slightest sporting proclivities and wanted a chance to tempt fortune got the chance and lost his money. The band was composed of five men. They did not stick to one form of gambling. At matching coins and shaking dice, at poker and baccarat, they showed the same "luck." They trimmed every passenger who played. One passenger lost $1,000. Other losses varied from $250 to small sums. The principal haul of the gamblers was made on the ship's pool. They won three out of the four pools.

IMMIGRATION BILL IN PRESENT SESSION

Washington, Feb. 12.—Senator Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the immigration committee, insisted that there would be a report from his committee on the immigration bill at this session of congress. He made this statement apropos of the announcement by Senator O'Gorman that he would urge that the immigration bill be put over until a future session of congress because of the effects its passage might have on the Japanese situation.

Senator Smith said after the meeting that there was nothing in the Japanese situation to warrant postponing legislation, but in spite of the assertions of Senator Smith there is reason to believe that many of the Democratic leaders are in favor of postponing action on the bill, and that the president has expressed the opinion to some of the senators that it might be advisable to postpone the bill in view of certain international complications.

SMITH FIGHTING WITH PRESIDENT

Washington, Feb. 12.—President Wilson took the first step in his attempt to pave the way for the passage through the senate of a bill repealing that section of the Panama canal act which exempts the American coastwise vessels from the payment of tolls. He conferred with Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who voted for the exemption when the Panama canal act was under consideration in the senate.

It is understood that Senator Smith assured the president of his support for the stand the administration has taken on the tolls exemption question, and it is expected that the senator will be relied upon in a large measure to head the administration's strength in the fight for the repeal. The president explains to the men he invites to these conferences his reasons for declaring the exemption morally wrong.

SULZER AND RYAN WILL TALK AGAIN

New York, Feb. 12.—Former Governor Sulzer and Allan A. Ryan, son of Thomas F. Ryan, are to have another opportunity of testifying to a $10,000 campaign contribution made by Mr. Ryan in October, 1912. The board of managers for the assembly in the impeachment trial charged that this contribution was made to Mr. Sulzer by Allan R. Ryan; that 10 $1,000 bills were placed in his hand by I. E. McGlone, secretary to Mr. Ryan. Ryan and McGlone were both witnesses at the impeachment trial and Mr. Ryan said that Sulzer appealed to him for the money. No answer to the testimony on this point was made until Oct. 25, when Sulzer, then campaigning for election to assembly, declared that the money went to Charles F. Murphy and was never accounted for by him.

Professor Blackie's Opinion.

A serious minded lady once tried to hire Professor Blackie into giving his opinion of Sankey's hymns at a time when they had an enormous vogue. The lady was giving the professor lunch, and he tried to fob her off by praising a Stilton cheese on the table. Some time after the lady sent him a copy of Sankey and a piece of the cheese, hoping thus to draw him. She succeeded to the extent of these four lines of verse:

Thrice blessed is she that hath done what she could
To make a lean man fat and a bad man good—
For the body, cheese; for the soul, Sankey;
For both, thankee.

LIKE EVE, SHE WILL ROAM WOOD

Daring Girl Will Take Neither Provisions nor Arms.

MAY RETURN FULLY GLAD

To Obtain Clothes by Slaying Animals and Using Skins—Daughter of Guide Says Knowledge of Woodcraft Will Enable Her to Succeed—Expert Shot With Rifle and Skillful With the Rod.

Portland, Me.—Garbed only in the original attire of Mother Eve, Miss Bana Douglass of Stratton will enter the dense woods of Franklin county and remain there two months some time this year. She will take neither weapons, clothing nor provisions, but will trust to her woodcraft and her knowledge of game to enable her to live and to come forth fully clad and in fine fighting trim. She is a fearless ranger of the forests, and her friends say she will accomplish her difficult task.

Miss Douglass declares she will enter the forests of her native county as scantily clad as when she was born and will come forth at the end of the two months fully clothed in such garb as she can obtain in the woodlands. She will take nothing, feeding certain that she can provide for herself whatever she needs of food and raiment.

Fear of no modern Aetnae seems to enter her mind. Miss Douglass greatly prefers the woods and fields and streams, with their hunting, freedom and fishing, to a love romance.

Since childhood the girl, a daughter of Gus Douglass of Stratton, has followed her father hundreds of miles in the woods, has absorbed his fund of wood lore and has studied the forests and inland waters with their teeming life. The father is an expert shot, trapper, fisherman and guide, and just now he, another man and Miss Douglass are across the Canadian border on a shooting trip.

Miss Douglass knows every kind of tree and bird and animal to be found in the Dead river region of this state. She knows every sort of animal of the field and river banks and every variety of fish frequenting Carrabassett river and the south and north branches of the Dead river itself in her home district. She knows all their habits and peculiarities and has no fear of life alone among them for two months.

Stratton is a part of the town of Eustis, forty-eight miles north of Farmington. The settlement and all the region of the Dead river lying thereabout are thinly populated, comparatively speaking, but they offer a great field for the sportsman with rod and gun. From her home town to the Canadian border no pond, stream or trail is unknown to this twentieth century Diana, and the crack of her rifle almost always brings down that at which she aims. With her endurance and knowledge of the woods and game she is ideally equipped for her coming adventure.

Miss Douglass last summer carried the mails over the rural route from Stratton to and through neighboring settlements for upward of twenty-five miles and in all sorts of weather and under many difficulties. She is not of large frame, but is strong and agile, the simple life of the backwoods serving in the twenty-three years of her life to conserve her strength and to build up a rugged constitution.

The girl seeks no notoriety in the venture she will make, and in all probability the outside world will never know she has completed her two months alone with the forest dangers until the time is up. Unwished for attention may be attracted to the venture, but the girl's family will guard against intruders.

BIG MAGNATES AFTER MURPHY

Would Rid Baseball of Chicago Stormy Petrel.

EVERS INCIDENT IS LAST STRAW

Federal League Promoters Watch With Interest the Strained Relations Between National and American Club Owners—Tener Told to Purge His Organization of Chronic Trouble-Makers.

New York, Feb. 12.—With the Federal league baseball men looking on with much interest, the friendly relations between the American league and the National league magnates became sadly strained, with the result that the club owners in President Ban Johnson's circuit reached the conclusion that unless Governor Tener could purge his organization of the trouble-making element, peace in the world of organized baseball could not continue. This crisis was a result of the rumpus over the dismissal of John J. Evers from the management of the Cubs by Charles W. Murphy, a move that, in the opinion of a large majority of club owners in both major leagues and also of the Federal league promoters in town, was most untimely.

With the Federal league raiding organized baseball for players of any caliber and the declaration of the Federal leaders that they were prepared to fight to the death, the Murphy-Evers episode seemed to be the last straw. Murphy's action was denounced by not only the club owners in the National league, but it was learned that during the session of the American league at the Baltimore hotel, which lasted for hours, it was decided to exert powerful pressure upon the National league men to force Murphy to sell the Cubs as soon as possible. In fact, when the American league, after adopting the playing schedule, adjourned, it was common gossip at the Baltimore that Governor Tener had been requested by prominent organized baseball club owners to take the bull by the horns and to bring about the elimination of the little Chicago magnate.

Governor Tener refused to discuss the situation from any point of view. It was said that he was anxious to return to Harrisburg, but that he might be compelled to remain over today, inasmuch as the other members of the national commission were eager to bring the situation to a focus. The American league's independent attitude, which is tinged with a warlike spirit, is said to be due to several reasons. The American leaguers believe the Brooklyn club's failure to sign Joe Tinker was the first big National league mistake, which gave impetus to the Federal league movement. On top of this the removal of Evers by Murphy. It is believed, has added fuel to the flames until Ban Johnson and his men had become disgusted.

Should Murphy see the handwriting on the wall it is not improbable that an opportunity to buy the Cubs would present itself to Charles Weeghman, the backer of the Chicago Federals, who still insists, however, that he would not consider such a proposition. Weeghman still insists that he would not give up the right to establish the Federal league on a firm basis, and President Gilmore of the new circuit again insisted that negotiations for peace with organized ball or the offer of a compromise by the national commission would not be heeded. President Johnson of the American league also stated that there was no plan on foot to take care of Weeghman and the Federal league promoters, who, he said, would be allowed to paddle their own canoe in any direction they might see fit to go.

ANTI-TRUST MEASURES CRITICISED

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12.—Attention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in annual convention here with delegates present from virtually every important commercial organization in the country, was held today by animated discussion and criticism of the administration anti-trust legislation program. Victor Morawetz, of New York, declared unequivocally against the proposed trust measures now under consideration by Congress, asserting that "they impose additional prohibitions which would give rise to additional uncertainty and litigation." He advocated, however, the establishment of a Federal Interstate Trade Commission "under an act carefully defining its functions, powers and duties."

Referring to the proposed measures, Mr. Morawetz said some of the bills "instead of furnishing safeguards to industry against the forces which have disturbed it, would place shackles upon legitimate business and enterprise." None of the bills, he declared, would tend to make the present law more definite or certain.

ATTENTION.

Regular meeting of John M. Bell Post No. 119, G. A. R., Thursday evening, February 12th, 1914, at 7 o'clock p. m. A full attendance is desired, as there is business of importance to come before the post. By order of D. R. JACOBS, P. C. JAS. M. NEWLAND, Adj.

LITTLE STORIES ABOUT OHIO

By CHARLES E. CHIDESTER

ONE OF OHIO'S MOST FAMOUS PIONEER

A fugitive at the age of 15, self-accused of the murder of a rival lover, twice condemned to death by torture by the Indians, survivor of terrible wounds in running the gauntlet and born an Indian fighter, Simon Kenton, for whom Kenton, O., was named, died at the age of 81, honored by citizens as one of Ohio's greatest pioneers and by them buried at Urbana where a handsome and massive monument marks the grave.

Kenton's career is one of the most interesting and thrilling among the biographies of the men who founded the Buckeye state. His most narrow escape from torture occurred after his capture by the Indians whose horses he and others stole. They tied him to a horse during the march to the village for trial and turned the unbroken animal loose in the forest. After vainly trying to throw his rider the horse played a trick on the Indians by following peacefully in the caravan.

Twice Kenton was sentenced to death and upon both occasions Simon Girty, the noted renegade, secured his release because of the fact that he and Kenton had been boon companions at Fort Pitt, now Pittsburgh. Had the Indians ceased their persecution it is believed Kenton would have joined them.

Kenton once saved an Indian village near Urbana from a massacre, by troops stationed there who claimed the Redmen were treacherous. Kenton attended the meeting at which plans were laid. He vindicated them of the charge of treachery and pleaded for the lives of defenseless women and children. His pleas, however, were in vain and seizing a rifle declared he would accompany the soldiers to the village and shoot down the first man who molested the Indians. "If you enter that village," declared Kenton, "you enter over my corpse."

The soldiers knew the old veteran kept his word. The village was not disturbed.

DO IT WELL

What is worth doing at all is worth doing well. Not giving your whole, undivided attention to the task in which you have invested your life and money means that you are wasting your own precious time and that of others. Whatever you do, do it with your whole heart and mind or get out and try something else. It takes pretty nearly all of a man's time to perfect an undertaking, provided it be a big and worthy one to begin with.

Wilmington finds itself in a truly regrettable situation, as a result of illegal proceedings looking toward the paving of the principal up-town streets, and Judge Newby has just handed down a decision in which a perpetual restraining order has been issued to prevent further proceedings on the part of those who took the contract to pave the streets.

The work was started early enough to pave the streets before winter, but after the streets were torn up and made almost impassable, the trouble reached the courts and work stopped, with the result that since that time the streets in the main part of the town have been in a most deplorable condition.

What solution will be found to the problem has not been determined.

BUTTER COMES 12,000 MILES.

New Zealand Product Soon to Be Placed on the Market.

Chicago.—Butter that has traveled 12,000 miles from New Zealand soon will be placed on sale in Chicago and other sections of the United States. A Chicago produce firm announced that it has signed a contract for 3,000 pounds of butter to be shipped this year. Reduction of the tariff on butter from 5 to 2½ cents a pound is said to have enabled merchants to profit on importations.

Part of the shipments will be received by the way of the Pacific coast and others by the way of London.

Rain From a Tree.

On one of the Canary islands there is said to be a tree which dispels from its branches actual rain to such an extent that a cistern placed at its base is never unfilled. This tree grows in one of the driest islands, through which no water ever flows. The branches of the trees are a cloud that changes into moisture frequently and sheds clear water.

GIRL BURNED

By Associated Press.
Mansfield, Ohio, February 12.—Fay Wilson, 18, was seriously burned here early today when her nightgown caught fire from an open grate. Her father, Charles Wilson, also was burned trying to save her.

Women in England.

In the seventeenth century Englishwomen were recognized as possessing an economic and political status side by side with Englishmen. There was written an interesting entry in the church warden's accounts of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, proving that one Elizabeth Bartlett was intrusted with the casting of the second bell and that all the women employed thus were paid at the same rate as men for the same work. Another instance is to be found in the records of the Fleet prison, of which the first female warden, appointed in 1217 on the death of her husband Robert, received the same salary "as the said Robert had been accustomed to during his life."

He Had Been There.

Rodrick—Howdy, old man? We are going on a camping trip soon. Did you ever enjoy a camping trip where you had to do your own cooking and sleep beneath the stars? Van Albert—Nope. Rodrick—What? Do you mean to say you have never been on a camping trip? Van Albert—No. I mean to say that I never enjoyed one.—Chicago News.

What She Preferred.

Apocryph of Senator Depew's declaration that in his young days in Pecks-kill marriages were very happy and comfortable on $1,000 or so a year. Millicent M. Atwood in an anti-suffrage address in Baltimore said:

"The cost of living is higher now than in Mr. Depew's young days, and it is impossible for a Bryn Mawr or Vassar girl to live a happy married life on $1,000 a year.

"A Vassar girl once refused a sixteen dollar a week bank clerk. He groaned and said:

"You wring my heart!"
"I'd rather wring your heart than wring your clothes," the Vassar girl calmly answered."—New York Tribune.

Some Satisfaction.

During the staging of a series of Shakespeare's plays in one week at Stratford-on-Avon not only were the performers tired out, but the heavy shifting and many changes had also wearied the scene shifters and property men. One night just after a strong death scene, when F. R. Benson as one of the English kings had drawn his last breath, one of the stage hands was heard to observe in a growling undertone to one of his fellows, "Well, Bill, thank heaven there's another bloody king dead!"

In Extremis.

Late one night a clergyman was called out to minister to an old man—a worker upon the adjacent railway—who was supposed to be dying. The summons was brought by another old man, the elder brother of the stricken one. While he was bustling about, making preparations for departure, the clergyman forgot momentarily the social status of his visitor and asked, "Is he in extremis?"

The old man was not going to be beaten. "Aye, he's right in your reverence." After a pause he added as a clincher: "Clean in, poor chap; right up to the neck, sir."—Cornhill Magazine.

REACH YOUR IDEAL.

The ideal is in thyself. The impediment, too, is in thyself. Thy condition is but stuff thou art to shape that same ideal out of. What matters it whether such stuff be of this sort or that, so the form thou give be heroic?—Thomas Carlyle.
